FIVE HUNDRED SUNDAY SCHOOL DELEGATES WAIT TO HEAR THE GOVERNOR

Chief Executive Delayed by Big Reception at Forum
Gathering, Wins Convention by Appeal for State

PROF. M. A. HOLINE DISCUSSES CHILD LIFE
Governor Stephens Urges Candidacy of Women for State Legislature Endorsing Present Three
Members and Their Work for State

Revealing their loyalty to the chief executive of this state, about 500 persons at the L. A. county Sunday school delegates waited patiently for more than an hour last night at the First Methodist church to see Governor Stephens and hear a short address delivered by him.

Although the governor was due at 9:15 o'clock, at which time the night session of the Los Angeles county Sunday school convention, now being held at the church, was brought to a close, he did not arrive until 10:25 o'clock.

EAST SIDERS ARE IN FAVOR OF AN ELECTRIC LINE

Advancement Association
Reconciled to Industrial District

The big feature of the luncheon meeting of the East Glendale Advancement association, held Thursday noon at the "Polka Dot Cafe" on East Broadway, was the report of the railroad committee as presented by Secretary Herman Nelson. He stated that a tentative arrangement for the electrification of the line on Glendale avenue was pending between the Union Pacific and the Glendale-Montrose company, whereby the Glendale-Montrose company will take over the line and make it a part of that system which will connect at Verdugo road on the south with the yellow car line of the Los Angeles system.

This, he stated, was not some official announcement, but had been gathered by him in conversation with railroad officials who, he declared are going into the matter seriously.

The electrification from Glendale avenue to Verdugo road on the south it is figured will cost $125,000. The line has never paid and last year suffered a deficit of $7000. The corporation therefore feels it is undertaking the expense of this extension to give Glendale additional transportation facilities, it should receive some help, and it will for a bonus of $25,000, which Mr. Nelson considered a very fair proposition and one that should appeal to all citizens because the line would materially advance realty values. It would also be necessary to give the company some assurance of a freight business he said, and for that reason there should be no movement to oust the lumber yards and other industries along the line. Said he: "If we can promise the railroad that we are going to take care of those industries, we can then go to work and get the situation on North Glendale avenue cleared up to the satisfaction of everybody, and the Glendale car service will be of great benefit to this territory. It has been suggested that instead of paying the $25,000, we could relieve the railroad company from the necessity of paying its portion of the right of way, which would save considerable money, and two or three other things have been suggested as counter propositions which we want to take up. I hope to be able to present some definite proposition at the next meeting."

KENNETH ROAD TO BE OPENED UP

Grand View Owners Ask
City to Cut Roselli
Tract

Property owners along Eighth street in the Grand View district have petitioned the city council to change the name of Eighth street to Kenneth Road.

A second petition to open Kenneth road through the Roselli tract from Grand View to Sonora avenue, was presented.

A third petition asks that the street be improved with pavement, curbs and sidewalks from Grand View boulevard to the west city limits of Glendale, being 150 feet west of Alameda avenue.

The petitions were signed by a large majority of the property owners. The opening of this new road will result in the doubling of values in the Fair View and Kenneth Road sections, and adjacent property.

'SO THERE', SAYS MRS. R. ISLAND RED, 'THAT'S US'

Mrs. Rhode Island Red lives up to the family strain again by laying every day, eggs that measure 6-12 inches around one way and 7-8 inches around the other way, and weighing 37.8 ounces. Mrs. Black Minorca proudly strutted forth on Wednesday with eggs measuring 6-12 by 7-12, but according to the latest news, she would have to step back and let Mrs. Red take her place once again.

Mrs. Red is only 1 year old and has been laying for only four months. Her owner, J. W. Harris of 131 South Jackson street, says that all of her eggs are very large.

$140 NOT GIVEN TO W. C. T. U.

The news story in the Daily Press yesterday to the effect that $140 was voted by the council for publicity purposes was not entirely correct. It was voted to give $100 to the Glendale Realty Board for publicity purposes at the coming San Francisco convention, but the misunderstanding comes with regard to the $140 for the W. C. T. U. During the confusion that reigned the Glendale Daily Press reporter gained the impression that the money had really been voted. It is understood, however, that the W. C. T. U. will be given the money that would otherwise be spent in decorating the city with flags.

Says Leisure Life Is Always Irsome to Men of Action

"A life of leisure is found to be rather an irksome existence by men who have been accustomed to regular tasks," says Henry James in his comments on the news of the day on the editorial page this evening. Mr. James says that the yearly habit of creating a mad dog scare has arrived on scheduled time this year. You will find Mr. James an interesting writer and we refer you to his regular column for further particulars.

Dr. Frank James writes tonight of "The Price of Progress," and says that the fields of France and Flanders are starred with graveyards and the road of science, of invention, of commerce and of the advancement of thought is likewise marked with crosses.

It's a good editorial page—one that you can read with profit and pleasure. We believe it is the best editorial page published in the west.

GOVERNOR AS COMMANDER, REVIEWS COMPANY M. GLENDALE MILITIA

Governor William D. Stephens, commander in chief of the California National Guard, reviewed the Glendale Company M last night in front of the Chamber of Commerce and after the review said to Captain Thomas D. Watson, commanding officer of the company: "Captain, you have a wonderful company and one that is a credit to its commanding officer. I would like to meet every man in your command and as they filed past the governor each man was introduced by Captain Watson and received a personal word of greeting from the commander in chief.

After the dinner and address at the Chamber of Commerce, Governor Stephens, accompanied by his guard of honor, Captain Thomas D. Watson, First Lieutenant Normal C. Hayhurst and Second Lieutenant Harold Alexander, of the local National Guard companies, drove to the First Methodist church in Captain Watson's automobile. Governor Stephens addressed the Sunday school convention in session at the church.

Several times during the evening the governor referred to the National Guard companies in Glendale. He spoke of them during his address at the dinner and was generous in his praise of the men and their appearance.

Every man in the company did his part to make the review a success. Rifles were carried with an air that comes only from the faithful drill and when the troops marched they held a line that is equaled only by "old regulars." Every man was a soldier and realized that he was being inspected by the commander in chief and that his part in the review was an important one.

BRAND DEPT. SUNDAY SCHOOL THURS. AFTERNOON STORE TO OPEN CONVENTION CLUB ELECTS ITS SATURDAY OPENS HERE OFFICERS

Newest Big Mercantile Corporation to Make
Debut at 10 o'clock

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning a new department store will be opened in Glendale. The Brand Department Store, owned by Messrs. Leo Kanner, Samuel Gershen, Aaron Gershen and Leo Rosenfeld will open its doors and welcome the public. In announcing the opening of the store the owners said that after spending their entire lives in the dry goods business they have come to Glendale with the one idea in their minds of giving the people a dollar's worth of merchandise and service for every dollar spent with them.

The personnel of the store will be divided as follows: Mr. Kanner will be general manager, Samuel Gershen, office manager; Aaron Gershen, manager of the men's furnishings department and Mr. Rosenfeld will be in charge of the dry goods department. There will be approximately 14 clerks to wait on the trade. All of these clerks are Glendaleans.

The policy of the management of this new store has been, and will always be, said Mr. Kanner, to buy everything possible in Glendale from the home merchants.

All of the fixtures and equipment for the new store were supplied by local merchants. Mr. Kanner has become a member of the chamber of commerce and is a strong booster for Glendale.

A. M. Kelley and his Shrine club orchestra has been secured for the opening and will play in the Brand Department store from 7 p. m. until closing time. A surprise for tomorrow, Mr. Kanner will tell the nature of this surprise but said that a gift will accompany every purchase in the new store tomorrow.

The owners of this store are direct from New York City where they have been engaged in the dry goods business all of their lives. They know the business thoroughly and have made connections with wholesale houses in the east and the west that will enable them to give unheard of values in dry goods to the people of Glendale.

The stock will embrace full lines of men's and women's wear, children's dresses and a full line of dry goods. A complete range of sizes in every article offered for sale is in stock.

Mr. Kanner has already rented a house in Glendale for his family and has announced that as soon as the business of establishing the store has been completed he will start building a permanent home here.

Dr. W. A. Brown Delivers
Sermon, Laying
Down Program

At the morning session of the Los Angeles County Sunday School Convention which is being held in the First Methodist church and over which General Secretary Hugs Gibson presided, some treats were provided for the delegates who were there in large numbers.

The convention sermon, delivered by Dr. W. A. Brown, executive secretary of the Missionary Educational Movement, was on God's call to a new program and His watchword, "Go Forward." The program which he laid down for this forward movement was first, "extension" that we may reach the great mass of persons who are not reached by the church because of non-organization; second, education through the Bible school movement, the object of which is to occupy the idle time of children; third, week-day religious training through the co-operation of the church and the public schools which should be induced to grant credits for work along this line in outside schools following the regular school sessions. He emphasized the need of adapting the system of education to the special needs of the child in such a manner as to develop his powers, and he said calls for specially trained teachers. He felt also that there should be a revival of the spirit of evangelism which has been dying down in this generation. It has been found, he declared, that special seasons such as Christmas and Easter make a special appeal which should be utilized to influence the young.

"Organization" was another point emphasized. He reviewed the development under the International Sunday School Association which is celebrating its golden jubilee, and predicted a great progress under the International Council of Religious Education which is uniting and extending the work already begun. Said he: "The original call was to 'bring back' Today the watchword is 'bring up'."

Dr. J. Louis Gillies presented the pastor's viewpoint. He emphasized the point that religion is not taught either in the public schools or the colleges and if instruction along that line is given, it must be through a movement on the part of the churches.

Meeting Discusses Clothes and Good Things to Eat

Officers for the ensuing year were elected Thursday at a meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club, held at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, corner of Laurel and Brand boulevard, the following being chosen:

Mrs. William Mabry, president; Mrs. E. V. Bacon, first vice president; Mrs. Kemper Campbell, second vice president; recording secretary, Miss Eva Daniels; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Roy Bancroft; treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Brown.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, who explained that the meeting would be turned over to various representatives of different manufacturing concerns in Los Angeles county, who with a fine display of their products would explain some of the details regarding the manufacture of same.

The club reached its 100 membership mark yesterday, and they are planning more programs equally as interesting.

MERCHANTS' TEAM TO PLAY L. A. TIGERS

Game Called Sunday at Park Ave. and San

The Glendale Merchants baseball team will take on the Los Angeles Tigers on the local ground on Park avenue and San Fernando road next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and it is expected that in this contest the Glendale boys will have their hands full every minute. This will be the first regular game of the season for the merchants and with the present line-up promises to be a game that will be worthy of the support of all Glendale fans.

The members of the club at this time are as follows:

GOVERNOR STEPHENS

Old Clothes Are in Demand at Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 19.—As a result of the coming "Days of '49 Celebration," there are no more old clothes stores in Sacramento.

"This '49 celebration is fine business," declared Max Markowitz, for many years a second hand dealer here.

"Maybe, too, I don't get fine business to buy it all back, too, after the celebration is over. The stuff that I have sold during the preparations for this celebration I couldn't have sold in the next 70 years—old hats, old coats, old shoes, old boots," Markowitz, with a bearing countenance, gazed back through his store, one filled with dusty antiquated clothing, for sale cheap, but now practically devoid of second hand articles, and show some cases with shiny new goods.

A country store at Redding recently sold out a stock of goods it had had for 50 years—old costumes of the mining days. The store was closed for some years following the death of a proprietor, and when it was re-opened styles had changed. The goods had been in stock ever since. When the modern '49 boom came along, Sacramentoans discovered the stock, and bought it out within a few days.

GOV. STEPHENS REPORTS AS STATE'S BUSINESS HEAD TO FORUM OF CHAMBER

In Address He Declares No Man, Nor Any Group of Men Can Tell Him Where He Is to Head in in State Affairs

EXPLAINS EXPENSE OF ADMINISTRATION
Pleads for Passage of Wright Act and for Strong
Vote on the $10,000,000 Soldiers' Bond
Measure of California

Governor Stephens took the largest audience ever assembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to his great California heart last night, while his white head trembled at times with the vigor of his words.

"I am the governor of every single man, woman and child in this commonwealth," he declared; "the governor of everyone, regardless of party affiliation, religion, race or creed."

"No man or group of men can tell this governor where to head in. I am the governor by the will of the people."

I am the business manager of the biggest business in California—business manager of the people of California."

He told the people how the budget had increased through their own vote. He approved the increases. He pointed to the cost of operating the whole state compared with Los Angeles county alone and pleaded for the passage of the Wright bill in the coming election and for the $10,000,000 soldier bonds.

He won the heart of his audience when he declared himself bone-dry and said the Wright act was not a contest between wet and dry forces but a question of law enforcement.

Every chair was filled when the governor arrived, escorted by the guard of honor, Company M, 160th Infantry, Captain Thomas D. Watson commanding, and the American Legion, headed by Commander James McBryde, Captain Goodspeed, Lieut. Robert Plume, Col. James W. Everington, Captain G. Kaemmerling, and Private Chalmers Day, was received and seated.

The invocation was given by the Rev. E. E. Ford, of the First Baptist church, and the banquet began. At the conclusion of the banquet

Three Glendale youngsters, age two, three and four, took the bit in their teeth yesterday afternoon and endeavored to pull off a runaway stunt. That real brainwork had been given to the undertaking is shown by the fact that the chose 2:50 as the time for the escapade, realizing that at that hour mother would be taking her afternoon nap.

Two of the youngsters lived at 821 North Central avenue and the other lived next door.

Cautiously the little ones tiptoed down the walk at the side of the house, then along the sidewalk and up to the corner. Around the corner they went, and when the "coast was clear" they breathed a sigh of relief and continued to plough ahead.

Switching to the next scene in the drama of crime, we see the mother awakes. She calls her hopefuls, but nothing but a hollow echo comes back to her. She registers fear and anxiety, and quickly she flies to the telephone and calls the Glendale police, who respond immediately. The entire police force rushes hither and thither. Finally one of the coppers see the youngsters just as they are about to catch a freight for the north.

This drama ends as all drama should end—happily. Mothers and children are reunited. Nothing is said about a strap being applied or anything of the kind, and we are led to believe that "all hands shed tears, offered regrets, and made up."

William Howe, manager of the Glendale theatre, was host last night to members of the national guard companies of Glendale at the first show in his theatre. When the companies were marched back to the armory after the review by Gov. Wm. D. Stephens, Mr. Howe sent word to the armory that all of the men were invited to attend the theatre and see "Ten Nights in a Barroom," as his guests.

The men left the armory and in uniform filed into the picture house. A strange coincidence was that as the local guardsmen were filed into the theatre a picture was shown on the screen showing the last of American troops leaving Coblenz, Germany.

This is the third time that Mr. Howe has entertained the guardsmen at the Glendale theatre and all members of the local companies are strong for him.

The inviting of service men to his theatre has been a practice of Mr. Howe. While Thorntoncroft was operated as a government contract hospital every man in the hospital was issued a permanent pass to the Glendale theatre. This pass was good at any time.

Mr. Howe has always been liberal in assisting the American Legion or the national guards in putting over any proposition for their benefit and service men of the city have named him "one regular fellow."

Cecil Reeds of Santa Monica Here

The Glendale police have been on their toes during the past twenty-four hours endeavoring to determine the whereabouts of Cecil Reeds, 12 years of age, of Santa Monica, who ran away from his home several days ago. The word was received by the Glendale police that the boy could be located at 1000 East Lomita avenue, but when Captain McGuire went to that address no trace of the boy could be learned. Since that time the Glendale police have been scouring the city in an endeavor to locate the lad, but up to noon today no trace of him has been secured.

LONG AFTER THE BIG BATTLE RAGED

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Jim met Jim here again recently. But this time not in the ring. "Gentlemen," Jim Corbett, here on a vaudeville tour, called on a vaudeville tour, called on Jim Jeffries, who has also forsaken their former calling of world's championing, and may tour on the sawdust trail of the foot-light track.

Instead of joining in a sparring match, the two Jims engaged in an exchange of well-chosen compliments. "Jim Corbett is a regular feller," said Jeffries. "And he was a master of clever boxing. All the stuff you ever heard about his cleverness is absolutely true."

"Jeffries?" said Corbett. "The fastest big fellow I ever saw. And Jim could hit, too."

Sigert fans noted that both men have retired from the fight game by this conversation, recalling some of their statements along about the time they were getting ready to lean each other up against the ropes.

NORTH BRAND HAS BOOSTER IN THE KENNY SHOP

Believes Strongly in Future of New Business District of City

W. A. Kenny, proprietor of the Kenny Music Shop at 203 North Brand, is one of the strong believers that the business district of Brand boulevard is growing more rapidly toward the north every day, and that it will be but a short time before the 200 block on North Brand will not only be a solid business block of modern stores, but that every one of them will be occupied and doing a good business.

Mr. Kenny is a close observer, but he bases his deductions on the phenomenal growth of the 200 block during the last two months. More than 20 new store rooms have been built within a very short time on the north side and as many more are under way. Building is not confined to the 200 block, but the 300 and 400 block on North Brand, is on the move and new buildings are rapidly closing up the gaps.

The Brand Department store, which opens for business Saturday, the Wilson-Bell Hardware company already doing business in one of the largest buildings in the city; the Stop and Shop, and numerous other new concerns are helping to bring the 200 block to the front.

"My business has grown right along," said Mr. Kenny. "I had faith in this end of the city when I located here, and I have had no cause to regret it. It is true I sell popular musical instruments and goods, and that I give the very best service possible to my patrons. Then, too, the Columbia line of Phonographs is very popular and easy sellers, but I do not attribute the rapid growth of my business up to this—the population tributary to our block has increased and the many new stores offering the public good values has had a tendency to bring business my way," concluded Mr. Kenny.

There has been a good demand for rentable property on the north side, and every business house is getting along nicely in the 200 block and going right ahead in the matter of increasing its stock and getting ready for bigger business.

NEW MASTER OF ORGAN MUSIC AT T. D. & L.

Newell Alton Is Specially Engaged by Manager Ralph Allan

Newell Alton, master organist, has been especially engaged by Ralph Allan as the featured organist for the T. D. & L. theatre and will be heard for the first time in Glendale, Sunday, when for his opening numbers he will render "Souvenir," by Drilla and "Kiss Me Again," by Victor Herbert.

Mr. Alton is recognized as one of the leading organists of the country, having for several years been the leading organist at the Tivoli and Strand theatres of San Francisco, Stillman Theatre, Cleveland and the Davis Million Dollar Palace-Grand of Pittsburgh, Pa., and only recently master soloist at the big Raymond Theatre, Pasadena.

Alton's selections and masterful ability stamp him as a "wonder" organist and the music loving citizens of Glendale have a real musical treat in store for them at the T. D. & L.

Mr. Alton supercedes George Olsene at the console, who has been transferred by Manager Ralph Allan to the De Luxe Theatre, Los Angeles.

Where is woman's place? Is it at home? Or does she belong in business or in politics?

Constance Talmadge's latest Associated First National starring vehicle will throw some humorous light on these questions for local photophiles.

It will be shown at the T. D. & L. Theatre commencing today. And, fittingly enough, it is called "Woman's Place."

In this production Miss Talmadge, as Josephine Gerson, a pretty society girl, gives politics a try-out, running for mayor of the town.

In addition to "Woman's Place" there will be several added attractions. A Monte Banks comedy, Travagance and a reel of intimate scenes of movie stars—perhaps your favorite is one of them—do not miss seeing this one—it's a real treat.

LADIES' TOGGERY IS CLOSING OUT

The Ladies' Togger Shop, 133 South Brand, is closing out its stock of millinery, ladies' ready-to-wear, etc. and Mrs. Neithardt, the owner, will retire from business on account of ill-health. Since opening the Togger Shop a few months ago, Mrs. Neithardt has done a good business and has made many friends who will regret that she is forced to sell out on account of ill health.

Elsewhere in this issue is a large advertisement setting forth the fact that everything must be sold at once for what it will bring, and the stock consists of high grade millinery, ladies' sweaters, corsets, etc. The fixtures and lease are also for sale.

And, my dear, just listen to these words of wisdom—if the moon is shining and the stars are bright, as becomes a summer's eve—just specify that your table be laid on the veranda, gently sheltered from the cool mountain breezes, or, after yet, 'neath the spreading oak tree, from which the very air itself derives its name! There, indeed all of pleasure and all peace, to be found in a quiet, restful dinner planned at this quaint Old English tea house—with all of its characteristic charm and native beauty intact—for, it truly expresses its hostesses own personality and radiant hospitality!

A lovely black satin gown is left open at shoulders to reveal sheer sleeves of vivid blue chiffon. The girl is in a short skirt.

UNTIMELY MEANS BRIDES—rings, and gifts! And, of course, you know, my dear, that the very newest in the way of wedding rings—is the clever "Add-A-Diamond"—an attractive platinum ring, in which a token of wedding happiness and success in marriage is added on each anniversary! ALHUR H. DIBERN of 120 North Brand Blvd. is showing a wide selection of wedding rings in a variety of attractive designs—among them the new carved and beveledatinum styles, as well as good-looking green gold bands! Oh! yes, 'tis true that a ring bought from Dibbern's—and wished on for longer, is a token of wedding happiness and success in marriage! And, of course, you'll also want a set of the stunning new sport-rings to wear with the different frocks and sport-costumes the tresser! Mr. Dibbern has just received a few of the ever combinations in jade, crystal and pearl, black and crystal, and pearl and onyx and pearl sets that far exceed in beauty and wisdom the old-fashioned diamond and sapphire sets. They are the very newest mode, just now—and no tresser could be complete without them!

The long, straight, detached back-panel, caught in at the hips and ending in a short square train is widely favored.

AS I WAS PASSING THE JAPANESE ART AND TEA CO. of 5 S. Brand Blvd. today, a winsome little tea set fairly beckoned me in! It was charming in its simplicity—so utterly Oriental in design and decoration—yet lightfully adaptable to Milady's table! But, to my unending delight, I discovered upon entering that at the Japanese Art and Tea Co. one will find all manner of beautiful tea sets, at prices so characteristically reasonable, most of them with handsome lacquer finish, and others cleverly designed in the very cloisonne finish! But these sets of Oriental loveliness were no more impelling in their very attractiveness than were the graceful imported Japanese parasols—interesting Oriental decorations to drop in and ask to see them!

SHOPPING WITH MARTHA ALICIA

MARTHA ALICIA, these days, is becoming more and more interesting. Mrs. Glendale! We're really living in a wonderful age, and what with the realm of light and fluffy, summery dresses here, lovely June time hats there, "trousseaus" in the other shop, and—learning the intricacies of radio in still a different place—Martha spends a most interesting time of it, to be sure! But come, let me take you with me as I journey from shop to store and back again, in our beautiful little city of Glendale. We'll become acquainted with this alert for ideas and suggestions that might tend to make the home more beautiful and more comfortable—as well as helpful hints for Milady's radiant attire!

A particularly improved method of using braids is to place many close rows of it upon the front panel of a frock or upon the drop-shoulder sleeves of a coat.

WOULDN'T YOU LOVE TO hear the music from Catalina Island, or the concerts from Los Angeles, with perhaps, now and then, hits that are most interesting from the world's news—all right in your own home, of an evening? RADIO is the magic word, like Aladdin's lamp—puts all within your reach! But, on the other hand, is the GLENDALE ELECTRIC CO. of 132 N. Brand Blvd. that has put the radio sets within the reach of everyone! They've just received a shipment of the wonderful little Federal sets—instruments that are made by one of the oldest and best-known firms in the business—and sold for only $25.00 each! This includes even an exceptionally good set of phones—just the thing for the family—as they are strong enough to pick up music and messages from Los Angeles, Catalina and vicinity! Just drop into the Glendale Electric Co. and ask about the complete Radio sets they're selling for $25.00 each!

Grey chiffon is used for the underlay in the neckline and the lower part of the sleeves of a stunning frock of blue crepe. At each side is a tucked panel of the material, joined with machine hemstitching to the blouse and turned under at the hem.

YOU'LL MARVEL that you were ever able to keep house without them, once you've used the famous Zanol products! Particularly useful are the flavoring extracts which are so well-known, and endorsed by the Boston School of Cooking, for you say they contain no alcohol—and are guaranteed to be absolutely pure and healthful! For the past 17 years the Zanol products have been used by over 11,000 people in the United States, to the best advantage—for they are truly the finest to be bought! And now, by sending a postal card to Mr. Wm. M. Tolman at 125 West Broadway, you'll save considerably on the purchase price, as Mr. Tolman is the factory representative—thus cutting out the middleman's profit. Just drop Mr. Tolman a postal card as I suggested, and he'll be glad to call at your home and explain to you the advantages of these Zanol products, as well as the legal guarantee that accompanies them.

Pin tucks are lavishly used on a rich brown crepe gown. The reverse side of the fabric is used for a gorgeous set of a clever gown of crepe satin in deep sand colour.

IN MAKING HER TROUSSEAU, the June Bride will most assuredly need a sewing machine! But, then, if you don't wish to buy just at present, simply call Glendale 1224-J—the SINGER SEWING MACHINE SHOP, of 108 South Maryland avenue, and rent a dandy machine for a month or so! They carry an excellent line of new and used machines, either for rent or for sale on easy terms! And don't forget to take the hemstitching to the Singer Shop, either, for Miss Armstrong is indeed an expert!

NEVER IN YOUR LIFE HAVE you tasted such perfectly delicious chicken as is served at PUSS 'N' BOOTS, 311 1/2 South Brand Blvd.—for their regular Sunday dinner. But, now is added another tempting delicacy to their already delightful menu—the real old-fashioned strawberry short-cake! Yum! It is indeed a rare treat—such an excellent dinner, with superb service, at only $1.00 the plate!

TRIP TO PARADISE IS AT GLENDALE

How does the discriminating patron of Heaven's door feel about the accepted styles in the Hereafter? All this will be shown to-night and tomorrow at The Glendale Theatre.

These questions came up for serious consideration at a conference of Metro executives in the course of the production of Bert Lytell's newest starring vehicle, "A Trip to Paradise." Maxwell Karger, who headed the unit that screened the Franz Molnar story; June Mathis, who prepared the continuity; and Bert Lytell, all had definite ideas as the heavenly costume. Bert insisted that feathered wings were no longer favored, while Mr. Karger vetoed any suggestion of twangling harps.

It was Miss Mathis who produced a working model of a dress, which, she insisted, might be equally appropriate for either sex after leaving this earth. The design was accepted immediately and already has found its way into one of the most unusual scenes ever conceived.

"A Trip to Paradise" is an adaptation of the English text of the Molnar play, prepared by Benjamin F. Glazer. The cast includes Virginia Valli, Brinsley Shaw, Ulfie Vin Moore, Victory Bateman and Eva Gordon.

The photoplay is by Arthur Martinell and Julian Garmsey is art director.

The greatest mystery of some boarding houses is how the boarders stand it.

COULD MOTHER AND FATHER do better than select a handsome dining set such as is being shown this week at the ENTERPRISE FURNITURE CO., of 216 East Broadway, for the happy couple's wedding present?

My choice would be a good-looking mahogany or walnut suite in either the graceful Queen Anne or William and Mary designs—with cane-backed chairs that are upholstered in blue or brown leather! Indeed, they are suites that are delightfully "different"—and whose chief charm lies in their very distinctiveness! Then, too, another useful gift is a really attractive library table, to match the rest of the furniture, in either a beautiful walnut wood, or dark, pleasing mahogany. But at any rate, if the new home is furnished from the Enterprise Furniture store, of this you may be assured—each piece of furniture in it will have a tendency towards creating greater happiness and harmony as the years roll on!

The new models prove that braid continues to be favored as trimming, especially upon street frocks and sport costumes.

TO SERVE WITH COOL refreshing drinks, on warm summer afternoons or evenings, there's nothing more palatable than a large plate heaped with assorted fresh cookies from the ROLLIN' PIN BAKE SHOP, 215 East Broadway.

They make a specialty of fresh, crisp cookies, that are positively the most delicious I've ever tasted—indeed, the actually melt in your mouth! And when you're wanting a special treat, just buy some of their Spanish cookies (those made with mixed spices), and the crisp, delicious oatmeal cookies, with a few sugar and some coconut cookies! Then, too, there is always the tempting macaroons and lady fingers, as well as a myriad other dainties—all specialties of the Rollin' Pin Bake Shop.

Black crepe de chine is gracefully combined with soft black lace in a charming dinner gown.

BUDDY IS A PLAYFUL LITTLE chap—and his shoes just don't seem to wear longer than a few short weeks—which makes it awfully hard on poor father! But then, that is only because mother didn't understand about BAINES SHOE REPAIR SHOP, 312 East Broadway, opposite the fire station! You see, they do expert repair work on shoes, at prices that are truly amazingly reasonable. And it's such a saving of time, if you'll just phone Glendale 180 and let them call for and deliver the shoes to be repaired. Of course, if the youngsters' shoes are just ripped, tell them to stop in at Baines—for they'll mend them free of charge!

Black serge with pleated braid lining is used for the long coat of an attractive costume.

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU heard it said that a "woman's hat is an infallible index of her character"? Then take heed, my friend, and have BETTY ROGERS of 123 West Broadway design your lovely summer hats—for they'll most certainly be charming creations suited peculiarly to your own personality, as well as perfectly in accord with the latest modes from New York and Paris. At the Betty Rogers Shoppe you'll also find a delightful selection of bewitching hats for every occasion, and to harmonize with each and every gown—drop in and look them over! Don't forget, either, to ask about the stunning knitted dresses for summertime wear, that may be made to order for you there!

GLENDALE'S NEW L. A. ROTARY MEET BOOTERY OPENS IS BIG EVENT SATURDAY OF YEAR

Formal Reception to Follow in One Week

Uniform Committee Reports to Local Organization on Garb

Glendale's new shoe store, the Glendale Bootery, Inc., will open for business tomorrow at 221 North Brand boulevard, but the formal opening will not be held until a week later when all of the stock and fixtures will be in place. The store will carry a complete line of women's and children's shoes.

R. E. Brown will be the manager of the store and H. A. Kent will be the secretary of the company. Both of these men are from Seattle, Wash., where they have been engaged in the shoe business for the past 20 years.

A complete run of sizes will be kept in stock for all styles of shoes and the firm will make a specialty of fitting the feet correctly in shoes that are built for them.

Mr. Brown visits the eastern shoe market at least twice each year and is in a position to give the retail trade the benefit of the advanced styles through connections with manufacturing houses on the eastern coast. Mr. Brown is a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

MRS. DONLEY IS HOSTESS

TO F. E. O. CHAPTER

Mrs. C. M. Donley of 215 South Central avenue was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the members of Chapter S. P. E. O. of Orange. Mrs. Donley is a former resident of Orange. The chapter colors of yellow and white were carried out with California poppies and Shasta daisies. At noon a delicious luncheon was served, and the afternoon was spent socially.

Covers were laid for Mrs. A. A. Bennett, Mrs. John L. Wheeler, Mrs. Lynn Chumling, Mrs. F. E. Hallman, Miss Barbara Hallman, Mrs. Will Johnson, Mrs. F. H. Mellor, Mrs. D. C. Pixley, Mrs. W. C. Pixley, Mrs. Harry Upham, Mrs. Maude Morey, Mrs. John R. Fletcher, Mrs. F. J. Bird, Mrs. Russell Morey, and the hostess, Mrs. C. M. Donley.

The great national Rotary Convention to be held in Los Angeles being the biggest thing on the Rotary horizon, the most interesting feature of the Rotary luncheon and meeting held Thursday noon at the Chamber of Commerce was the report of the "Uniform Committee" relative to the attire recommended for Glendale Rotarians at that convention. The recommendations were adopted and all delegates and attending members will wear blue coats, white trousers, yellow winders ties, straw hats of the same style carrying a yellow band on which "Glendale" is printed, and a yellow poppy will be worn in the buttonhole. Rotarians are expected to dispense sunshine, hence the emphasis on the yellow color note.

The report was submitted by the chairman of the committee, "Val" Hollister.

The club also decided to advertise "Glendale Day" at the convention by issuing printed invitations to visit Glendale on the day designated, the autos for the trip to be furnished by Glendallians, the cars to carry Glendale banners and leave Los Angeles at 1:30.

A most commendable activity which the club voted to sponsor was the furnishing of a teacher to give educational opportunities to eight crippled children who are unable to go to school. The teacher will go to the homes of the children.

Two visitors were present, Dr. Bird, president of Occidental College and Will Page of the Page Furniture Company, this city. In conformity with the club's custom of having talks by members concerning their callings from time to time, Owen Emery was called upon for a short talk on the law as a profession.

Preliminary to these talks reports were received from "chairmen of committees appointed for arrangements carried out for entertainment, Val Hollister for field day activities, and Francis Henry for "church day." The concluding announcement concerning the International Rotary Convention to be held at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles June 4 to 10, Bill Stephens being the president of the host club and Mrs. T. O. Babb chairman of the Woman's Executive Committee in charge of hospitality for the ladies of Rotarians.

PLAYING WITH GASOLINE

At irregular intervals there is a report that the supply of oil from which gasoline is made is becoming exhausted. This is used as the pretext for an advance in price. A little over two years ago there was a veritable scare. Automobiles were placed on restricted allowance and told to be grateful that they still were permitted to pay a fancy price for their necessary fuel.

Just now the executive head of the Shell oil concerns has said right out in meeting that there is enough oil to meet the full demand for centuries yet. He was speaking of known fields, and without thought of territory not yet explored. Moreover he spoke with the thought in mind that the present demand would continue ever increasing, which is unlikely.

Inventive genius, seeking to utilize new forces, is expected to devise a method of drawing power directly from the ether. Experiments to this end are now in progress. There is nothing of wild improbability in the theory that the motive power of the future will bear no relation whatever to the consumption of gasoline.

It is interesting to observe that in the east the price of gasoline has taken a sharp advance. No plea of scarcity is being made. The visible stock of the fluid is greater than ever before. The advance seems to have been purely arbitrary. Perhaps the producers are beginning to think of a future when automobiles will swarm no longer about service stations, but will use oil as a lubricant only.

FOR RED RUSSIA

It is to be regretted that in discussion of the world's problems there should be so much occasion for mentioning Russia; but Russia thrusts itself forward, and may not be ignored. Its false preachment concerning itself are accepted and echoed by certain Americans. Editors of American papers, deluded, purchased or inherently depraved, turn their papers into organs of the bolsheviks. They hold up, as something to be admired, the ghastly, bloody and tragic failure which is soviet Russia. They proclaim it a wonderful success, and so proclaiming, must, as a rule, know themselves guilty of lying, grossly and stupidly.

An amazing circumstance is that the Hearst sheets, that were against interference when Germany threatened the very structure of civilization, upholding then the methods of Germany, emphasizing its potency and not condemning its purpose, say now that America should interfere on behalf of Russia of which bolshevism has made an outcast among nations. Another amazing circumstance is that Borah, stridently objecting to any alliance with a decent group of governments for the sake of promoting peace, says the United States must now take to its bosom the hissing and venomous serpent of sovietism. Thus would the decency of the world be outraged and a monstrous crime condoned. To what end do men utter such folly?

"What Prevents Russian Recognition" is a characteristic Hearst editorial, its logic upheld precariously only by the half-truth that is worse than the open lie. It says: "We recognized Russia under the czar, when she had no business conditions at all, and when his dark and cruel tyranny kept the largest and most fertile part of Europe a wilderness. . . . We recognized that kind of a government . . . but we will not recognize the government whose representatives are educating the children of Russia and feeding them before they feed themselves. We will not . . . because the international bankers will not let us until Russia agrees to make concessions which will enable these bankers to exploit that great empire."

The interesting feature of the editorial quoted is the brazen insolence of its writer. His presentment is not to be ascribed to naivete, for that would be to impugn his intelligence; and he is no fool. No American defends the rule of the czar, but at its worst it never had sunk to the wretched plane of soviet rule, never was so blackly brutal, never crushed the people to such depths of misery. It did not create famine for them and then rob them, leaving them to starve. The monarchy had a literature, its place in the world of art, its savants of research, its culture, its happiness, in which the masses shared. Keeping "the largest and most fertile part of Europe in wilderness" is distinctly a bolshevik accomplishment. That area used to produce millions of bushels for export. Now it produces nothing. In Moscow alone, American charity is feeding 35,000 little ones.

And this is the regime extolled by Hearst, extolled by Borah, flattered by Senator France, and having its praises sung by a brainless parlor choir of reds, communists, anarchists and morons.

NO PERFECT DOCUMENT

Stability of all the processes of law is based on the constitution. Therefore the necessity for respecting the spirit of that great document. When a law is passed it must accord with constitutional provisions, or it is not a law, but a form of law, and is cast aside.

Interpreting the constitution, the highest tribunal in the land has erased from the books the statute forbidding child labor. The integrity of the justices who framed the decision is not questioned. Nevertheless, the fact that they were able to frame it, or rather, that they could find no excuse for not framing it, is sad and tragic. It does not seem possible that in the constitution is that which forbids the people of this enlightened country to protect their little ones from the grind of labor that destroys their health, crushes their souls, and drives from their lives all opportunity. It must be that the fault lay in the legislation itself, and that humanity, acting with intelligence may be able to correct it, and make the popular will effective.

The fact has been demonstrated that capital engaged in certain pursuits finds the labor of children useful. As to the welfare of the children it cares nothing. They may grow up stunted in mind and body, or they may not grow up. In any case there is a new generation of babies to replace the unfit and the fallen. There also are parents so shiftless and lazy that they are willing to be supported by the blood and bones of their boys and girls.

Against such capitalists, and against such parents, children are entitled to be shielded. The failure so to shield them is an indecency and a shame. It is to be assumed that the jurists who removed the barrier from between the children and the pressure of greed, found the task a hateful one. It now becomes a public duty to replace the barrier, using some method that may be buttressed by the weight of the constitution, and at no point out of agreement with the code governing a free republic.

CHICAGO ON TRIAL

When the men accused of causing bomb murders in Chicago are standing at the bar of justice, on trial with them will be the reputation of the city, the integrity of the law, the good faith of officials, and the efficiency of society in protecting itself. Some of the men accused are known to be criminals. Some of them have served terms in prison, and others have escaped through the tricks and devices of rogue lawyers. Nevertheless, each will appear with the statutory presumption of innocence in his favor, and entitled to full protection in his legal rights.

A large fund is said to have been collected for defense. Probably there is not a pressing need for this, as the defendants are so mixed in politics as to indicate that persons considerably higher up will be anxious to bring about acquittal in order to save their own skins. Nevertheless it is reasonable to suppose that the usual brood of gang lawyers can be induced to accept anything proffered.

One of the defendants, long a dangerous character, even now under sentence to the penitentiary, says that he intends to quit Chicago, a delicate intimation that he expects some friend to pass him a file. Concerning his determination to leave the public will not withhold approval, but prefer to name the route to be taken by him and the worst of his pals.

A long time ago Chicago had a batch of dynamite anarchists to deal with, and dealt very well. The hangings that followed the Haymarket riot were just and salutary. The lesson lasted for a long time, but the memory of it seems to have died away.

Even the bravest prize fighter may be afraid of his wife.

The man doesn't live who feels at ease in a room where two women are whispering.

One of the unsatisfactory things of this world is kissing a pretty girl through a veil.

Every man's wife's relatives expect more of him than he expects of himself.

THE PRICE OF PROGRESS

It is a saying that "blood is the price of Admiralty." Men never conquered the sea without losing many a warrior. Thousands of brave and adventurous men sleep in the depths of the ocean as the price paid for the magnificent liners that now cross the Atlantic with the regularity of ferryboats.

Every other great social gain made by the explorer, the inventor, and the experimenter has taken its toll of life. And, as in the case of war, the lives sacrificed are the boldest and best.

The sons of Martha pave the way for the advance of the sons of Mary with their bones.

To be able to run regularly express trains at the average rate of fifty miles an hour means an incredible number of wrecked, wounded and killed.

Ross Smith the other day was making all preparations for his great adventure of flying round the world. He went up on a trial trip in his airplane, something happened to the machine, it crashed to earth, and the bold airman was instantly killed. The Greeks would have found in this story another proof that the forces of Nature, which they called the high gods, are jealous of the achievements of men.

We have a better view. It is that the human race is constantly pushing forward the line of its defense in the conquest of Nature, and the front of this battle line is almost as dangerous as were the trenches in Picardy.

Looking at the accident from the standpoint of the individual it seems a cruel tragedy, as though the fates mock the spirit of man. For here was one who had fought on the ground through the Gallipoli campaign, and who had fought in the air during the last two years of the war. He had flown from England to Australia. And now he came to his death testing his machine over a home village.

It is as if a man returned from world-wide perils on sea and land, in travel and battle, unscarred, and had slipped on a banana peel at his door step and broken his neck.

As a single instance such a thing cannot be understood in a world of design. But when we consider mankind as a whole and destiny as a great problem, this affair takes its proper place as one of the inevitable pieces of coin in which the price of progress must be paid.

Every advance of science, every extension of the control by man over matter, is won by death. Death is the price of life.

The laboratory, the inventor's workshop, and the home of the pioneer have their martyrs. We read that when the Creator made man He gave him dominion over every living thing. Man-kind marches onward to assume its birthright.

The fields of France and Flanders are starred with graveyards, with clustering crosses where fell the heroes in the great struggle for democracy. And the road of science, of invention, of commerce, of progress and of the advancement of thought is likewise marked with crosses.

MRS. ROSENBERG ELECTED PRES. OF PACIFIC P. T. A.

Regular Meeting Finds Most of Members Present

The regular meeting of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association was held Thursday afternoon at 3:15, when the annual election of officers took place. Those elected were: Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, re-elected president; Mrs. George Moore, vice president; Mrs. Walter Stamps, secretary; Mrs. Ralph Brown, treasurer, and Miss Circle, auditor.

A most interesting meeting was opened by the salute to the flag, followed by the singing of America. Minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved, as well as the treasurer's report. Mrs. Stone, principal, then announced that the program would be given by children of the school, which included numbers as follows:

Piano solo, Beatrice Smith. Song by four kindergarten children followed by a song by the entire room.

Flag recitation by Virginia Russell of the first grade.

Demonstration of phonetic soundings given by children of the first grade, with Mrs. Longley.

"The Little Pine Tree," a sketch by Mrs. Badour's room.

Song by Miss Todd's room. Song and recitation by girls of Mrs. Carpenter's room, who were dressed in white and carried Cecil Brunner roses.

Recitation and songs by Mrs. Stedman's room. Reading by Miss Wilson's room. Two poems read by children of Miss Circle's room.

Piano solo by Margaret Chapell, from Mrs. Stone's room. Flag recitation by Gwendolyn Bettinger.

The mother count was taken and Mrs. Badour's room, had the most mothers present. Mrs. Rose Russell, historian, gave a condensed account of the work that had been done during the year. Mrs. Truman Curtis presented, Miss Circle with a gift in behalf of the association in appreciation of some work she had done for it during the year.

Mrs. Rosenberg announced that a class in parliamentary law will be held in the public library, taught by Mrs. P. S. McNutt, each Friday morning between 10 and 12 o'clock. She also announced that the June meeting would be in the form of a picnic at Verdugo Woodlands, June 12. The meeting then adjourned to the court, where tea and cake were served.

MRS. THOMPSON IS ELECTED OFFICER OF COLUMBUS

Teachers Gave Farewell Party to Old Officers of P. T. A.

The teachers of the Columbus avenue school gave a farewell party to the officers and members of the P. T. A. on Thursday afternoon. The regular business meeting was held, in which officers for the ensuing year were elected, these being: Mrs. C. H. Thompson, president; Mrs. Tedford, vice president; Mrs. A. M. Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Knessler, treasurer; Mrs. Julia Hayward, auditor and Miss Biglow, historian.

The meeting was presided over by the president. After the business session a splendid program was presented by several girls from the high school. Miss Grace Yarborough gave two very clever readings, and this was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Dorothy Peart accompanied by Miss Marjorie Yarrick.

At the close of the meeting the teachers served refreshments and several old, familiar songs were sung.

MRS. FERRY ENTERTAINS SEMI-MONTHLY CLUB

Mrs. Peter L. Ferry of 614 East Acacia avenue was hostess on Thursday afternoon to the Semi-Monthly club. Beautiful tulips and greenery were used in decorating and at noon a delicious luncheon was served. The afternoon was devoted to whist, Mrs. Charles Rudel winning the prize.

Places were set for Mrs. J. Houle, Mrs. Charles Rudel, Mrs. J. A. Chappius, Mrs. J. D. Lundrean, Mrs. Mary O'Brien, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mrs. W. Pritchard, Misses May and Annabelle Ruprecht, Miss Cogan and Miss Catherine Ferry.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Lundrean, 303 East Maple avenue.

KENSINGTON CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The Kensington club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Peterson, 1216 South Maryland avenue, with 46 ladies in attendance.

The affair was a surprise party in honor of the hostess' mother, Mrs. Patterson, who celebrated her birthday. Mrs. Julia Hayes, president, presented Mrs. Patterson with a beautiful leather bag in behalf of the club. During the afternoon, which was spent in sewing and fancy work, Mrs. Patterson's granddaughter, Dorothea Peterson, gave a flag recitation. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her little daughter, Dorothea.

The decorations were purple stock and pink and white roses, combined with an abundance of greenery, which was very effective. Mrs. Patterson also received many other gifts from her many friends.

CHAPTER C. J. OF P. E. O. ENTERTAINED

Chapter C. J. of the P. E. O. was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Durham Porter, 517 West Doran street, Mrs. Roy Hinchcliff being assistant hostess. Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, who has been ill for a good many weeks, is better and was able to be present on Thursday afternoon.

The regular business session was held followed by the following program: Mrs. Roy Kent gave a talk on "Keeping a Watchful Eye on Each Other's Standing."

A talk was given by Mrs. H. V. Brown on "Aim at Self Control." Mrs. J. B. Moolie spoke on the subject, "A Careful Consideration of Feeling."

After the program, a luncheon was served by the hostesses. There were three visitors present, Mrs. Byrl Closs of Chapter B. A., Mrs. Shively, formerly a member of the organization in Fargo, S. D., and Mrs. Lennox of Van Nuys. A pleasant social afternoon was enjoyed.

WILL ENTERTAIN PI BETA PHI SORORITY

Mrs. Frank Parr of 224 South Orange street will entertain Glendale members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority at a one o'clock luncheon Saturday, May 20, at her own home. All visiting members of the sorority will be made welcome.

ST. MARK'S LADIES HAVE GOOD TIME

A very enthusiastic meeting of St. Mark's Guild was held Thursday, all day, in the guild hall. There was a splendid attendance and the ladies accomplished a great deal of work in getting ready for their bazaar, to be held June 3.

A picnic luncheon was served at noon and was more elaborate than usual, in honor of Mrs. McOmber's sister, Mrs. Van Hook from San Francisco. The ladies enjoyed a delightful day.

KRESS CLUB HAS LUNCHEON

Members of the Kress club, a social organization of South Glendale, had a luncheon party at the Palais Royal in Los Angeles Thursday and spent the afternoon at the Orpheum. The ladies in the party were Mrs. Henry Shafer, Mrs. Harry Duke, Mrs. Henry Stecker, Mrs. Clark Johnson, Mrs. Charles Seger, Mrs. F. G. Hartman, Mrs. E. W. Evans, Mrs. F. A. Alsopach, Mrs. William Alexander and Mrs. D. B. Edwards.

How lumber prices have dropped since 1920!

In 1920, $300 would only buy about 1000 feet of clear oak flooring. Today the same money will get all of the following materials, if purchased from us:

1000 ft. clear oak flooring	5 square Pioneer roofing
500 ft. Cornell Wood Board	1000 ft. red paper
1000 ft. No. 1 Dimension	1-5X panel door
6 sacks cement	1000 ft. Sheathing
2000 ex 6-2 shingles	1 front door
	1000 ft. R. W. Siding

Come here and we'll prove that this is the best time in several years to build! If you are willing to take expert advice you'll buy now. All indications are that building material prices are more apt to advance than decline.

MRS. WYKOFF IS HONORED GUEST

Mrs. Clifford Wykoff of 209 South Everett street was the honored guest Thursday evening at a birthday party given at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Ryan, 332 West Acacia avenue. Mrs. Harry D. Baggs was assistant hostess.

Cecil Brunner roses were used in decorating and after dinner, the evening was devoted to games and dancing, in which the older people enjoyed the Virginia reel and old square dance.

Mrs. Wykoff was presented with several beautiful gifts and a birthday cake. Guests included Miss B. Pearson, Howard Lowdermilk and Rudolph Rosenberg of Burbank; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wykoff and son, Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Baggs and daughter, Geneva, Miss Harriet Baggs, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan and children, Ruth, Ramona and Richard Ryan.

Fine Artistry and Colonial Gowns Form Unique Concert

The pleasure which their concert afforded as expressed in the unstinted applause of the big audience which filled the auditorium of the high school Thursday night, must have yielded great satisfaction to the members of the Madrigal club, their leader, Mrs. Charles A. Parker, and the assisting artists.

It was cumulative in interest but delightful from start to finish. The pretty colonial gowning of the singers, the drift of flowers across the footlights, and great jars filled with foreopsis, brooms and roses, made a charming setting.

Of the chorus numbers, "Daffodils a-Blowing" (German-Salter), greatly pleased, and so did the "Tragic Tale" (J. Bertram Fox), in which the effective piano accompaniment of Mrs. John A. Wright played so big a part. To satisfy the desire for more it had to be repeated.

"Sparkling Sunlight" (Arditi), was another great favorite, sung by Mrs. Virginia Freeman and the club, the soloist winning a storm of applause for her beautiful rendition of the tripping melody sustained by the chorus. This, too, was repeated in response to urgent demand.

"Little Brown Baby" (Karolyn W. Bassett), was a very good club number, as was also the finale, "Invocation to Life" (Spross).

Beautiful solos were contributed by Mrs. Harry N. McMullin in the pleading "Do Not Go, My Love" (Hageman), and the inspiring "Life" (Pearl G. Curran), a prayer in music.

The Arion string quartet, composed of Miss Neva Chulberg, first violinist, Miss Mamie Smith, second violinist, Miss Marion Matthews, cellist, and Mrs. Enona Hopkins, harpist, delighted the audience, especially in the two numbers by Edward German—"Morris Dance" and "Shepherd's Dance," so warmly applauded that the players responded with an encore.

Mrs. John Cotton, alto singer, and president of the club, covered herself with glory in the three solos programed as "a group of miniatures." They included "My Little Garden" (Nutting) and Tenyson's "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petals," in a musical setting. Responding to insistent applause she sang as an encore "A Tragedy in Still Life," about three little chestnuts, so clever that she had to sing it again to satisfy the amused audience.

The climax of the program was reached in the beautiful ensemble number, "Ave Maria" (Franz Schubert), in which Mrs. H. N. McMullin was soloist, with the club and a most beautiful violin, harp and piano accompaniment, provided by Miss Chulberg, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Wright. It was the crown of the evening and was generously repeated in part.

The limitations of the stage were embarrassing at times, especially for members of the Arion quartet, who scarcely had room for their music stands. Three high school students, one of them Albert Hewitt, who is always at hand when needed, did yeoman service in moving the harp and assisting to place stands and chairs. The new high school must certainly have a larger stage.

All of the artists received bouquets and at the close of the performance Mrs. Parker, the director, was showered with flowers.

Mrs. Cotton, as president of the club, extended a gracious invitation to patrons of the concert to attend an afternoon tea which the club is to give May 31, from 3 to 6, in the chamber of commerce auditorium, when a brief musical program will be given.

Following is a list of the personnel of the club:

Director, Mrs. Charles A. Parker. Accompanist, Mrs. J. A. Wright. First sopranos, Mrs. C. L. Pockham (vice president), Mesdames G. D. Roach, John M. Ray, C. L. Viereck, C. J. Tuttle, E. B. GOVERNOR REPORTS ON STATE AFFAIRS

Frances J. W. Henry of Glendale, led the diners in the community singing of "America," and President V. M. Hollister introduced Mattison B. Jones, toastmaster of the evening.

Mayor Spencer Robinson was introduced, as one who likes to talk to himself so as to be sure of an intelligent audience.

Mrs. Howard Cavanah sang artistically several selections accompanied by Mrs. Howard Whitney.

Supervisor H. W. Wright of the county was then introduced as a new member of the chamber of commerce, and spoke on behalf of the new members.

He was followed by Miss Hazel Linkogel, violinist, a graduate of Glendale high school, whose rendition of "Laurance's" "By the Waters of Minnetonka," came as an artistic surprise to the audience. She gave a second number, a Spanish Dance by Wienkowski, which left the audience unimpressed. Then came a dreamy Romance by the same composer, which was alluringly given with wonderful temperament and a truly remarkable tone. Her playing was so exceptional that Toastmaster Jones claimed her as one of the soloists of the Glendale Musical club. Governor Stephens during his opening remarks declared that if he could play as she played and sing as Mrs. Cavanah sang—he would not open his mouth.

Mr. Jones insisted that if Miss Antonette Smith had played as well with her bow as Miss Linkogel had with her bow, she would have been Mrs. Jones sooner than she was.

Introducing Governor Stephens, Mr. Jones declared the governor had been a member of the bar of Los Angeles for a great many years but had not practiced. He noted that when he taught law and advocacy, years—many years ago, Governor Stephens had had the benefit of some of his lectures. "And he survived," he added.

Governor Stephens after paying his respects to the musicians, spoke in part as follows:

"Glendale, the fastest growing city in the world—copyrighted," he began. "I am happy indeed to be governor of the great commonwealth of California and the reward is to be privileged to talk to you, to look into the faces of the men and women of this chamber of commerce, whom your toastmaster likes so well. There never was any body of men whom women did not improve."

"I have known your toastmaster almost as long as he has known me. He has stood always for the right, the four square deal, for the good things—the building up."

"The Glendale Chamber of Commerce is up and doing, there is no better boosting body anywhere with its Secretary Rhoades. I met your assistant Secretary Sanders at Burbank. He's a spell-binder. How he can talk. He had us not going but coming."

"I rejoice in the way you are building up this community, as Los Angeles and Los Angeles county have been built up in the last thirty-five years. But perhaps you have never heard of it. They so seldom speak of it."

"A secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce went to New York. He was asked to make a speech. He delivered one. He said when he came back: 'I exaggerated, wildly, profusely—but when I come back after three weeks, I find Los Angeles had grown so much—that I had not said enough.'"

"California is the most wonderful state in the union. I once used to travel the roads selling at wholesale. Now I am selling California at wholesale and retail, to our people."

"California is not deserving of any criticism; but if you have any criticism to make, don't holler it out—whisper it where it can be taken care of, or the Eastern newspapers will get it and print it in big headlines to keep their people from coming to California."

"Where did you come from? What did you come for? Heaven-occur! And you found it."

"If so, say it out loud. There are few of us who are fortunate enough to have been born in California."

"We have grown because the people east of the Rocky mountains have come to California. Their coming is our future, as they make their homes here."

"California is better than any state in the union. Why, we can raise a little of everything."

"Down in Del Norte county, I met 1800 of the finest kind of people, at their celebration, 150 miles from a railroad. The chairman was a tall man with a big voice; he could call the cows four or five miles away—I used to call the cows myself, and drive them home, chop wood, shuck corn, find red ears and—get the reward."

"But the chairman said: 'Smith valley is the most wonderful valley in California; most wonderful in the world. It will grow anything.' I told him: 'If Smith valley can do that, you might see Mrs. Stephens—she wants to grow some more hair on her husband's head.' When I go there again, I hope you'll send your mayor along with me."

"A Chico woman asked me, 'Have you been to Paradise?' It is a little town just outside, here in California."

"I recollect Glendale, in the wattle days—she always went over the top, with the rest of California for all the loans and funds needed to win the war."

"It is a wonder that the roads are not all bad spots—instead of being as they are, the best roads in the United States."

"Ten years ago there were 40,000 automobiles in the state. Today there are 800,000 licenses. Imagine a growth like that, imagine this traffic on these highways."

"Last election you voted the money for the highways. And they are being put into shape to meet this traffic. Today there are more trucks going over the roads than there were automobiles ten years ago. Each with from 3 to 15 tons. Autobuses with from 10 to 40 passengers are using up the highways. They are being rebuilt to stand this strain."

"Ten years ago the man who would have spent $100,000,000 to put in such highways as we have now, would have spent the last nine years in an insane asylum."

"I am the governor of every single man, woman and child in this commonwealth—the governor of everyone, regardless of party affiliations, religion, race or creed—in this commonwealth."

"No man or group of men can tell this governor where he is to head in. I am governor because of the wishes of the people. I am business manager of the biggest business in California."

"The last budget was $88,000,000. Forty-five millions of that were for education. One-half for education of our people. Aren't you proud that your children will be as well equipped as you are?"

"The budget was for two years, remember. The expenses of the state have increased. Your own expenses are larger. Then it is the same with California—the population is increasing at the rate of 20,000 per annum."

"With this increase comes a proportion of indigence, of insane, of criminals, of children to be cared for at the public expense. Children to be taught in the schools. These make up the total expenses of the state of California."

"The post of the state is actual, all this considered, less than the taxes in Los Angeles county alone. There it is—$42,000,000; the state expense will be only $44,000,000."

"The cost of operating the state was increased by your demands. You went to the polls and decreed an addition of $1,200,000 by increasing the pay of teachers. Which you had a perfect right to do. You struck off the highways and put them on the state, which cost $5,000,000. Yet there is not a corporation in California whose expenses have not increased more than the expenses of the state of California during the same period."

"I want to speak to you of law and order, of reverence for the constitution, the Wright act. It does not rob the constitution of any of its powers and in voting for it you do not change the 18th amendment."

"With the wets and the dries it has nothing to do. It is a question of law and order."

"Personally I am dry—dry as a bone. I never have had a drop served in the governor's residence since I have been there."

"Wet or dry is not the question. On that question every man may judge as he pleases. But on the subject of law and order there is no question."

"Therefore I want to ask you all to vote for the Wright act."

"I want to pay my respects to all the men in khaki; the guard of honor which met me tonight, to company M under command of Captain Watson."

"I am going to speak of the soldiers' bond issue. I don't speak of it because of any personal benefit to me. For he who went out of my home never returned. He who went out of my sister's home—never came back."

"All the bond issue does is to buy for our soldier lads, farms and homes and give them a chance to buy them from the state, on forty years' time."

"The state will sell the bonds, raise the money, buy the land or farm or home. The soldier boy will pay 10 percent and the state will pay the rest, giving him 40 years to make payment. So the state pays nothing, actually. The soldier who wishes to take up the offer, may apply to the soldier's welfare bond. The land will be investigated and if approved the soldier will pay his 10 percent and the state will pay the rest. If for any just cause he is out of work, or sick, his land will not be taken away from him. This is not a foreclosure proposition. It is to tie the boys to the soil and thus improve our citizenship."

"It will not cost the state a dollar."

"So when you go to the polls, I ask you to vote the bonds for the soldiers' bonus so that the 148,000 California soldier boys who gave not half, as we might do and still be richer, but gave all, will be tied to the state of California."

"When I went to congress, I found they did not understand the Jap problem."

"There will be no war with Japan over it."

"The Japanese civilization is not affected. It is the civilization of the United States, of California that is affected."

"I have no criticism of Japanese civilization but it is not like ours. Some may say it is better than ours—that may be; but all I know it is not like ours."

"The Jap farmer lies on a hard board with a wooden pillow. The Jap woman is back in the rows, on the farm, a few days after she has borne a child. The child is in a box—in the row—while she pursues her labors. That may be a civilization better than ours. I don't know and I am not criticizing. But I know it is not like ours—and I pray to God ours will never be like it."

"I admire the Japanese for the great strides they have made from a small kingdom to a mighty nation."

"I would be willing for him to get on his house-top and holler about it—but I want that house to be in Japan; not in California."

"You know a lot about the Jap problem. When you write east, tell your friends. Send them a little story. This way we will gradually educate the east, in time."

The close of the address was followed by a general reception.

While the way of the transgressor is one way, there are others.

THREATENS STEEL
WITH REVOLUTION

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 17.—Robert McKnight, discoverer of the "McKnight" steel process, threatens to revolutionize the entire steel-making industry.

Launched at by steel magnates, the 70-year-old "radium expert" will build his own mills to prove that steel can be produced in one-third time and one-half cost by the McKnight method.

At least two operations used in present steel-making can be eliminated under the McKnight process if it succeeds in practice. These are the open hearth and Bessemer processes to obtain the proper amount of carbon and to purify the metal.

Production of pig iron, essential to the industry today, and the use of chemicals to separate impurities from ore, would be eliminated.

In other words, according to McKnight when he mixes ore, coke, limestone and a catalytic agent, and allows it to burn four hours in a hot-air heated blast furnace, he will have as good a

CANADIAN RURAL SCHOOL IMPROVES

REGINA, Sask., May 17.—"The day has passed," said a provincial government official, "when we must constantly raise our voices in defense of the rural child. Today he is receiving early schooling that is no more fragmentary than that of the city child." He was discussing the provincial department of education report which shows that the number of children now enrolled in Saskatchewan schools is 175,000, or twice the number of eight years ago. The cost of school administration is $7,200,000.

BABY WRAPPED IN ITS OWN FORTUNE

BRUSSELS, May 17.—Two laborers repairing the high-road near Durbury watched a big motor car stop 100 yards away. The driver alighted and deposited a bundle beside the road, after which he drove away rapidly. The bundle was found to be a baby.

One of the men took the baby home to his wife. When she examined its clothes, she found 40 1,000-franc notes, with a note saying that if she made her discovery public, 300 francs would be sent each month for the baby's support.

"All the world loves a lover."

"It's not true. The other evening there were two of them in a picture theatre. He was pleading and she sulked, just to draw him on."

"He kept whispering, 'Be my darling—oh, be my darling again.' After half an hour of this somebody shouted: 'For heaven's sake be his confounded darling.'"

UNEMPLOYMENT IN SOVIET RUSSIA IS NEW EVIL

Returning to Capitalism, Government Dumps
Labor on Market

MOSCOW (By Mail).—The problem of the unemployed, with its corollaries of beggary and crime, has been revived in Soviet Russia along with the new economic policy and its shift back to capitalism.

During the revolution, strictly speaking, there was no unemployment problem in Russia. The communistic political and economic organism absorbed all classes of society, giving each person a job and a ration of food, whether there was any actual economic demand for his services or not. Unemployment was even a misdemeanor, in that it implied evasion for duty in some governmental institution.

With the change back to capitalism—"state capitalism," as communistic literature styles it—the government discharged large numbers of personnel working in fields to be given back to private capital, or occupying swivel chairs for which there was no need. This sudden dumping of thousands upon the labor market before private industry was able to expand and take them in, piled up a steadily increasing mass of jobless as the winter months progressed.

During March the unemployed in Moscow were estimated at between 90,000 and 100,000; in Petrograd, around 80,000. In both cities about 70 per cent of these were women. The number of jobs has tripled since the beginning of this year, according to statistics of the department of labor. More than 20,000 were on the waiting lists of the government employment bureaus the first of April. It is said this represents between one-fourth and one-fifth of the actual number out of work.

Owing to lack of means, the department of labor has not been able to do much beyond offering to help them hunt jobs. Toward this end, the government recently cancelled private firms the right of freedom to contract for labor, obliging every employer to engage his workmen through the government employment offices. In this way the department hoped to regulate the labor market and distribute the jobs where they were most needed.

This decree was issued ten days ago, and it is still too early to see results. It is doubtful whether it will be very effective, however, not only because it will be difficult to enforce but because the cause of the unemployment is much deeper than the mere question of distribution of labor, and cannot improve greatly until industry can rebuild itself.

Bread lines, like those in America and England, were not possible, it was explained, because the department was short of funds and because all available food was needed for the famine regions. Only recently was any material help at all extended. Last week the Kremlin set aside a small sum for their benefit.

Moscow's beggars—the singing beggars, the pauper minstrels, the fakirs, the shakers, the paralytics, and just ordinary ragged ones, always were one of the most picturesque and pathetic of Moscow's sights before the war. No truly Russian street scene, no market-place, church or public place would be complete without them. They figure in Russian opera and literature alike, and are as much a part of the stage setting of the city as the little bootblack in New York.

They disappeared during the revolution. Where they went is a mystery. The able-bodied, of course, were compelled to work. All the others doubtless were discouraged from seeking alms by the fact that people did not have loose money in their pockets because there was little opportunity to use it, all shops being closed and all food being handed out by the government in the form of rations.

Now they are back in legions. A gauntlet of from six to a dozen stands in front of every large restaurant, cafe and church. Every Sunday morning they take their places regularly in the outer corridors of the Church of Our Saviour, near the Kremlin. Singing beggars take up their position on the steps outside beginning their Oriental enchantments as the congregation emerges. Others "shake" beside the doorway, some genuine paralytics, more of them fakes.

Hardly less picturesque and Oriental are the street minstrels, who may be seen almost any evening on the side streets near the Theatre and the Red place, Tverskaya, etc. I pass one every evening on the way to the foreign office, as he stands playing his pipe in front of the Union bank, on the Red place, with his long beard swaying rhythmically with the wailing melody, his high sheepskin cap, his bright eyes, sharp nose, his flowing overcoat, he is a picturesque figure.

The ordinary beggars are as active and numerous as ever. They surround your drossy every time you stop on the street, coming out from no one knows just where, their shrewd eyes being able to spot a foreigner at any distance. A distinguished looking man, whom I first mistook for a college professor or an ex-officer, stepped up to my drossy the other day on Tverskaya and asked for alms. His family was starving, he explained, and he had tuberculosis. He said he was a civil engineer before the war.

Said the defendant by way of explanation, "If I'd had the money I'd have paid the debt a month ago."

"Ah," interrupted the plaintiff, "that's all very well, your honor, but if my aunt had four wheels she might have been an omnibus."

CONGRESS SEATS
SOUGHT IN N. C.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 17.—Nothing but congressional races and local fights will hold the interest of North Carolina voters until the state primaries June 3. In three of the congressional districts democratic candidates will not have opposition in the ensuing campaign, while in most of the others sailing will be easy for the democratic aspirants to seats in the house of representatives.

In the Kinston district, Claude Kitchin, veteran of the North Carolina delegation, minority leader in the house now and majority leader in the last congress, will be opposed for the democratic nomination, which is equivalent to election.

In one of two upstate districts republicans will make things interesting for the democratic candidates.

A woman, Mrs. Lucy B. Patterson, is the republican opponent of Major C. M. Steadman, democratic incumbent, in the Greensboro district.

WOODRING IS FASTEST MAN

NEW YORK, May 17.—While sprint records and field marks have been consistently shattered in the past two years, the quarter-mile record of 47.45 seconds made by the great Ted Meredith in 1916 is one of the few that have remained beyond the reach of the present day super-stars.

How long Meredith will remain as the fastest man of all times at 40 yards seems to be up to the willingness of Allen Woodring, of Syracuse University, the Olympic 200 meters champion, to go out for it.

Not excepting Charley Paddock, the Pacific coast flyer, Woodring has been regarded as the fastest man in the world today at 220 yards, but owing to his rather slight build he had not been considered a record-making possibility at a quarter-mile until the Penn relay games recently.

Running as anchor man for Syracuse in the one-mile college relay race in the one-mile college relay championship, Woodring got away seven yards behind Bill Stevenson, Princeton captain and the national quarter-mile champion. Woodring ran him off his feet and won the race after doing a quarter in the unofficial time of 47.45, equalling the world's record.

Considering the fact that the timers all caught him the same and that the event was run late in the afternoon, when the track was chopped to pieces by two days of incessant pounding and cutting, the performance was phenomenal.

If he maintains the form he had in that race, there is little doubt that Woodring will be able to make a new record for the quarter on the Harvard track in June, if he goes out for that event in the intercollegiate championships.

900 SHRINERS DUE
FROM CHICAGO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Over nine hundred Shriners from the Medina temple of Chicago have engaged reservations for the June convocation of Shriners.

The fact that such a large number from only one temple is coming to San Francisco, is declared to be an indication of the total number who will come from all over the country.

Original estimates were that 300,000 visitors would be in the city during the Shrine convention, but it is now believed that this number will be exceeded.

The story teller's fancy created Hop-o'-My-Thumb and the seven-league boots—the step of twenty-one miles was the limit of his imagination.

New
Columbia
RecordsHave
a record laugh

YOU who read this may or may not be a "tired American business man," but anyway you enjoy a good laugh occasionally. It is good for you, too. The most comfortable place to laugh is in your favorite easy-chair at home. The surest way to laugh is to listen to song hits and comics on the latest Columbia Records.

The most popular stars in the most popular shows make their records for Columbia, and Columbia Records repeat the piece to you in a way that is enough to make the artist jealous. You will agree that New Process Columbia Records are somehow different—and better.

One great thing about a Columbia Record is that you can try it before you buy it. You can't read a book to see if you like it well enough to buy. But you can—and all over America millions of people do—go to a place where Columbia Records are sold and hear the ones you are interested in.

It is a pleasant habit, and you are invited to acquire it, this plan of dropping in at a Columbia Dealer's place every few weeks and keeping up to date in the latest hits. Why not start right away?

OREGON GOES TO PRIMARY POLLS FOR GOVERNOR

Five Republican Candidates for Governor and Three Congressmen

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—(United Press).—Oregon went to the primary polls today with the keenest fight in years centering about the Republican nomination for governor.

Five Republican candidates oppose the present incumbent, Ben W. Olcott, for nomination. Olcott is running on his record. Four Democratic gubernatorial aspirants bid for preference to represent the normal Democratic minority.

In addition to the governor, three congressmen are to be nominated by each party, with the present incumbents highly favored to win. Both parties elect national committeemen.

Three supreme court justices are to be nominated, a state labor commissioner, state school superintendent, state treasurer, public service commissioner, fourteen circuit judges, half the state senate and the entire state house of representatives. Numerous county officers also are to be filled.

Voters will also exercise their prerogative of recall on two members of the state public service commission, the more important

CALIFORNIA FARM LAND

Although California ranks second among all the states of the Union in value of agricultural products, only 29.5 of the state, the second largest in area, is in farm land. Only half of this farm land is improved. In 1920 more than six other states ranked ahead of California in improved farm land, but the efficiency of California overcame the lead.

In the last ten years farm owners in California have increased from 66.6 per cent to 87.5 per cent. The increased interest in better methods of farming is reflected in the increased demands for information made upon the University of California College of Agriculture.

According to Thomas F. Hunt, Dean of the College, the percentage of farmers taking Correspondence Courses in Agriculture has materially increased during the past three years. The Agricultural Extension Division has been heavily pressed to meet all the demands coming in to the Farm Advisors and to the General Information Bureau.

"It is our hope," said Dean Hunt, "that agriculturalists will continue to make the greatest possible use of the service offered by all branches of the College of Agriculture."

Any pretty woman's tears are worth their salt.

Of the two elective state commissions. The chairman of the commission, Fred A. Williams, is not a candidate for re-nomination.

The fight for Republican preference for governor will be close and bitter, it is predicted. The veterans' vote is expected to go to George A. White, state adjutant general, Republican.

COAST ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION TO CONVENE

Gathering Is Slated for Los Angeles on May 31st

The Pacific Coast Electrical Association's Sixth Annual Convention will be held at the Ambassador hotel, May 31 to June 2, when 500 delegates will gather from California, Arizona, and Nevada to discuss the problems of the industry which in this state employs some 21,000 people, pays $5,000,000 in taxes and represents an investment of over $500,000,000.

The program includes addresses by Howard F. Beebe, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, M. H. Aylesworth, executive manager of the National Electric Light Association, Robert Sibley, editor of the Journal of Electricity, Mayor George D. Cryer of Los Angeles, John D. Fredericks, president of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, and others.

A ball and banquet, radio demonstrations, first view movies, vaudeville, and sports will furnish diversion from industrial conferences and technical discussions. "Catalina Day" will be celebrated Saturday, June 3, by an outing to the island resort.

LEBAUDY'S DREAM RECALLED BY DIVORCE SUIT

Wife of Sahara Emperor Seeks Annulment of Daughter's Wedding

PARIS, May 19.—The whole romance of the Lebaudy family, which first thrilled Paris over 20 years ago, has been reopened by the suit of Madame Lebaudy, for annulment of the marriage of her daughter Jacqueline, to Roger Sudreau, son of a French detective.

Ever since the romantic young "sugar heir," Jacques Lebaudy, sailed away two decades ago to create for himself an "Empire of the Sahara," the Lebaudy family's affairs and fortunes have been in the public eye, but never more than today, when the alleged "white marriage" of the "Emperor's" daughter is before the French courts.

More than twenty years ago Paris society, which had known Jacques Lebaudy as the son of an immensely wealthy sugar manufacturer, cratic, brilliant, a seeker after adventure, awoke to find that he had become an international figure. He had fitted out a ship and a small army and landed on the west coast of Africa with the avowed intention of founding the Empire of the Sahara, with himself as ruler under the title Jacques I.

It was just after the historic encounter of Kitchener and Marchand at Fashova on the upper reaches of the Nile, after the French officer had traversed Africa. The Frenchman, then a colonel, announced to Kitchener, who was Sirdar of Egypt and commander-in-chief of the British forces there, that the country south of the Sudan must thenceforward be considered French territory.

Dream of Empire
Kitchener congratulated Marchand on his feat of exploration, grinned sarcastically at the Frenchman's plans and sent a dispatch to the Colonial office. It was long before the days of the entente cordiale. So, after rumors of war, Marchand got peremptory orders from Paris to stop on gracefully and leave Egypt and the Sudan to the British. When Kitchener and Marchand met again they were allies, both generals on the front in France.

That check of Marchand ranked in the bosoms of nationalist France. Therefore, when Jacques Lebaudy started Europe by his audacious Sahara scheme, the son of the Sugar King, now self-styled Emperor, was acclaimed a national hero. With him under the Africa sun, was Marguerite Deliere, a boulevard beauty, of Franco-Swiss origin, whom he had met while she was playing small parts in second rate theatres of Paris. But the French government, again yielding to British pressure, frowned on his adventure. His army mutined.

The Emperor and his consort were rescued from the infuriated natives by a squad of French Senegals and shipped back home. Lebaudy then tasted Parisian fickleness. The music halls, which had sung his praises, made him the butt of the latest and rawest boulevard wit. The humble origin of the fallen empress were not overlooked.

Lebaudy and his companion betook themselves to La Palud, where he had purchased a villa. The empress had named it "La Maurette," before the collapse of the imperial dream. There, about seventeen years ago, came into the world a baby girl, Jacqueline, now the storm center of the drama in which the stake is $10,000,000. "La Palud is a historic spot," said Lebaudy. "Two emperors have visited it—Napoleon the Great and I."

LUXEMBURG TO BE RUN BY ELECTRIC JUICE

Preliminary Negotiations for Operation Are Now on LUXEMBURG, (By Mail).—Preliminary negotiations are in progress for the biggest scheme of electrification that has ever been attempted. Scheduled to be started next year, the plan is to install sufficient electric plant to furnish all the motive power required for the lighting services, the railroads, tramways, factories, and private houses—indeed, for making electricity the one and only mechanical power in the Grand Duchy.

The scheme arises out of an undertaking, given some time ago by the government of the duchy, to supply the town of Luxembourg (the capital) with electric current. The duchy contains a thousand square miles of territory, and has a population of a quarter of a million.

It was the recruit's first day in camp, and, not knowing the rules of saluting, he swaggered past an officer with hands deep in his pockets.

The officer happened to be the C. O., but little did the recruit know until he was called back with a sharp command.

"Don't you know who I am?" demanded the C. O.

PRINCETON CLEANS SLATE AND WAITS FOR FOLLOWING

Harvard and Yale Fail to Second the Action Rousing Suspicion

NEW YORK, May 19.—Princeton has already denied that bitter inter-family feeling is creeping up within the "Big Three."

The Tigers will not admit that there is any ill feeling at Old Nassau because Yale and Harvard did not follow Princeton's lead in cleaning up athletics.

It is a fact, however, that Princeton is not only peeved at the attitude assumed by Yale and Harvard that no "house-cleaning" is necessary in their athletic circles, but Princeton believes that Yale and Harvard are trying to force the Tiger out of the "Big Three."

In stating this as a fact there is no intention to doubt the denial of the Princeton officials as to resentment or to infer that they are not telling the truth. The Princeton officials may not have been aware of the sentiment on the campus.

Princeton men felt elated when the Tiger athletic council declared ineligible Tom McNamara, captain of the baseball team; Ralph Gilroy, captain elect of the 1932 football team and ten others. Princeton felt that Yale and Harvard would do likewise and chargin followed when the other two members of the "Big Three" declared similar moves unnecessary.

When rumors were heard that Kernan, star catcher at Yale, had played baseball last summer "where admission was charged" and when it was reported that Owen and Pitts, two great Harvard football stars, were accepting the same kind of financial help from alumni that caused the disqualification of Gilroy at Princeton, the wrath among the Tigers reached such a point that some of the alumni were ready to make open charges against the other two members of the Triumvirate.

At the same time, a story cropped out explaining why Eddie Casey, All-American star and one of the greatest Harvard football players, did not play in 1930 when he had another year to go. After the Yale-Harvard game in 1930, one of the Princeton coaches said to a friend, "That was Casey's last game. He will never play again."

He did not give his reasons, but now the story is told that Casey was getting $3,000 a year for merely looking into the Harvard back-house once a day and that Princeton and Yale found out about it. Most of that is considered merely incidental. The chief worry of Princeton now is the Harvard will succeed in getting Princeton out of the "Big Three," so that the traditional old Yale-Harvard combination can rule sport and society.

The feeling on the Princeton campus is given by a senior at Princeton, whose name obviously cannot be used. He says:

"Ever since 1920 we have felt that Harvard wanted to get us out of the Big Three. Only a very successful era of athletics at Princeton since then has prevented Harvard from succeeding. Unless Harvard could say 'Your teams are not good enough for us,' Harvard had to play Princeton. It so happened that Princeton was more than holding her own in dual competition. Things are changing now, however. If Harvard beats Princeton in baseball this season and wins on the football field next fall, we are sure that, unless enough pressure is brought to bear, Harvard will tell Princeton, in the parlance of the ring, 'Go out and get yourself a rep!'"

"Princeton believes that Yale and Harvard, by their aloofness, should not have given the impression that Princeton was the only one in need of a housecleaning in athletics; Princeton, being the youngest member of the Big Three, cannot demand it because Yale and Harvard could take the stand that Princeton had publicly declared herself guilty of playing ineligible and that the right thing for Princeton to do would be to withdraw. Harvard would rather have Princeton retire voluntarily than be put in the position of forcing Princeton out."

"For obvious reasons Princeton will not permit any official color to be applied to the stories. Some of the athletic leaders are inclined to be belligerent and pick up Harvard's gauntlet. Football prospects aren't of the brightest at Princeton, but if the Tiger can beat the Crimson next fall, Princeton will consider it the sweetest revenge for her humiliation."

BIG "C" SCHOLARSHIP
Karl L. Engebretson, a senior in the University of California College of Agriculture, registered from San Diego, is the winner of the Big "C" scholarship trophy for the year 1931-32. The award of the trophy, which was based on scholarship during the fall semester, was made at the annual banquet of the Big "C" Society at the Claremont Country Club. All men who have made their letters in intercollegiate athletic competition at the University of California were eligible to receive this trophy.

Engebretson played end on the University of California football team in 1931, 1932, and 1933. He has also taken part in other student activities.

Silent Strength

Ages ago the Egyptians built the Pyramids—carved them with tireless hands from the solid stone. Silent—Immovable—Unvanquished—they stand today, resisting the ravages of storms and the scorch of the sand and the sun.

The Strong things of Life are built like those Pyramids. Reputations which endure are slowly, carefully built on the solid rock of Confidence fulfilled. Reputations are piled up Deeds of Service—unselfishly rendered. They are cemented by Kindness and Thoughtfulness for one's fellow men. Reputations so built will endure, and remain just as the old Egyptian Pyramids—Monuments of Silent Strength. Be assured of our ready response to your call at all times.

MOTOR GENERATORS

Electro magnetic waves as used in wireless transmission are generated by means of alternating current at a high potential but since the source of supply is the direct current lighting generator of the steamers means a means must be employed for converting the current from direct current to alternating current. It is then stepped up to a high voltage thru a transformer the principles of which are explained in one of the stories published in this column some time ago. As the most efficient method of conversion is a motor generator, the direct current from the dynamo of a ship is employed to run a direct current motor which in turn operates an alternating current generator. The fact that these two units are usually combined in one, the armatures of both the motor and the generator often being mounted on more properly, they are most always mounted on the same shaft accounting for the term motor-generator. The driving motor is usually of the shunt wound type which was explained in yesterday's paper, which may be coupled either to a simple or a compound wound alternator, though compound motors are also employed. Current for exciting the fields of the alternator is taken directly from the supply circuit which also feeds the motor. The latter receives direct current at 110 volts and its speed is varied by means of a rheostat in series with the field, increasing the amount of resistance in circuit increases the motor speed and vice versa, since the greater the resistance of the field as compared with that of the armature, the greater the amount of current passing through the latter. The alternator generates alternating current at voltages varying from 110 to 500 volts and the current has a frequency of 60, 120, 240, or 500 cycles according to its design. The care of the motor-generator is an important part of the wireless operator's duties and in the government examinations considerable value is accorded the answers to questions on this part of the transmitting set. In the present telephone sets, the above is just backwards. In other words, a direct current is desired and consequently a direct current generator is driven by an alternating current generator. In the case of the new station which is being erected on the Press building, there will be put to use a 50-cycle motor with a speed of 2900 revolutions per minute which is mounted on the same shaft with a generator. The generator being turned at the above mentioned speed will give a direct current output of 1000 volts and 3 of an ampere or 300 watts capacity. Anyone who is particularly interested in seeing one of these motor generators may obtain permission to see this generator in use by phoning the radio editor or at present it may be seen in the window of the Newton Electric company, 154 South Brand boulevard.

Commutators

Owing to the fact that it has a commutator, the motor end of the unit will require more of the operator's attention than the generator. The most frequent form of attention required will be cleaning the commutator periodically and inspecting it in operation from time to time to note whether or not the brushes are sparking. This sparking must be kept down to the minimum at all times, for if it is allowed to increase it will burn the commutator so badly that the efficiency of the motor will be greatly reduced and the armature will have to be removed from the machine to turn the commutator true again. The commonest cause of sparking is a collection of dirt, usually carbon ground off from the brushes, and dirt from the air, both combining with any excess oil to form a pasty mixture that is an excellent conductor. When a sufficient amount of this collects between the commutator segments it is liable to short circuit them and may burn out coils. High mica, as it is sometimes termed, consisting of the protrusion of one of the insulating separators of the commutator bars above the surface of latter will cause excessive sparking and will quickly ruin the brushes. If not remedied. Some other causes of sparkling are hollows or grooves in the commutator due to uneven wear; brushes out of position in the neutral fields; grounded or short circuited coil in either the armature or fields; brushes worn down to a point where they are too short to be held against the commutator by the springs with sufficient pressure; unevenly worn brushes or brushes that have become stuck in their holders so that they cannot move. The above paragraph on commutators refers only to the old type of motors used on board ships and in some of the land stations. Although many of this type are still in use, in fact a great many are still in use, the manufacturers are gradually doing away with these troubles by induction motors or where brush motors are used, new and improved types of brushes are taking the place of the old brushes.

Notice!

The Newton Electric company have just informed the radio editor of a shipment of aeriola junior sets which have arrived and as there are several parties who have been inquiring for them and did not leave their names, they have requested that it be announced in these columns. Both crystal and detector tube sets were included in the shipment and they state that they are now able to supply the demand for the aeriola sets which are manufactured by the Westinghouse company.

Press-Newton Radio Station
The information on the new broadcasting station may be given out a little more definitely at this date. The Newton Electric company, who are purchasing the radio phone set to be installed at the Press building, today completed all arrangements and the contracts state that the set will be completely installed inside of two weeks. Therefore, we will aim to open the station on or about June 1. Also the aerial and counterpoise, have been rearranged and it is now the plan to use a four wire aerial and counterpoise both of which will be strung on 20-foot spreaders. Of course it seems like a long time to wait but it is best to take the extra time and have a station that everyone will be glad to listen to and a station that will be as nearly perfect as possible.

Questions—Answers

Q—Is a license required for a station which does not transmit outside of the state? L. V. H.—Glendale.

A—Yes. It was to be that there was not a license required except for stations that were powerful enough to cross the state line.

Q—Are you still giving away those sets? If so I would like to try for one and do the subscriptions have to be gotten within a certain time?—J. B.

A—Yes, we are still giving away the radio sets for fifteen subscriptions. Just apply to the contest editor at the Glendale Daily Press office at 222 South Brand and he will fix you up O. K. No, you do not have to get the subscriptions within a certain length of time.

SIDELIGHTS ON RADIO

Successful Broadcasting

Because Yosemite Valley, California, is—as certain writers have expressed it—merely a "hole in the ground," some wireless experts were entirely against the successful operation of a station there. Though Yosemite's granite cliffs rise 5,000 feet in the air, broadcasting has been heard distinctly from aeriola strung from two giant trees on the Valley's "floor."

The University of Wisconsin announces a course in radio. Lessons will go by air route to residents of the Middle West.

The Rock Island Railroad is the latest to announce that it will install radio for the benefit of passengers.

Entertainment is 360 meters. Daily, weather, market and crop reports and other official and semi-official announcements are sent out on a wave length of 85 meters.

There are now, in the United States, 71 licensed broadcasting stations, of which 7 are department stores. Of the 7, Philadelphia is the location of 3; New York of 1; Newark, N. J., of 1; St. Louis of 1 and Los Angeles of 1.

Although the transatlantic radio service of the Radio Corporation of America has been in existence only two years, it handles approximately one-fifth of the total traffic passing between America and Europe, and an even greater proportion of the trans-pacific traffic.

Forty-eight hours after a description of a youth who fraudulently obtained two wireless sets from Pittsburgh electrical houses was broadcast, relatives of the fugitive went to Pittsburgh and paid for the instruments. It was estimated that more than 10,000 amateur operators, received the call. The first American steamship to be equipped with radio telegraph station was the Philadelphia, in 1902.

Concerts broadcasted in Newark,

N. J., have been heard plainly by amateurs in Cleveland, Ohio. Edward T. Stotesbury, head of the banking firm of Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, has had a "set" placed in his new palatial home near Chestnut Hill.

Dampness Essential to Ground Plate

As the ground is fully as important as the aerial system, care should be taken in making one. Says the Springfield, Mass., "Union." The first thing that is necessary is a good-sized piece of sheet copper. This should be at least 18 inches square, and more if possible. Look around the yard and pick out a spot where the ground is most apt to remain damp and dig a hole there. This hole should be from 3 to 4 feet deep in order to have the ground retain its dampness during a dry season. In order to make the ground hold its moisture better, it is packed about the copper plate. Charcoal has the property of holding moisture very well. After it is in place, pour a couple of buckets of water over it. Fill in the ground again and pack it down tight. Be sure that you have a good heavy copper wire soldered to the plate before it is buried; or, better yet, solder a length of copper tubing such as is used for the gasoline lines of an automobile.

HE'S THE PET OF PHILADELPHIANS

This orang-outang does everything but talk. He's the pet of Philadelphians who visit the zoo in that city. Bozo is telling a secret here to one of the keepers at the menagerie, of which he himself is one of the dominating rulers—just because he's intelligent.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

BY FIRST INTENTION

Maydie Lang ran up the steps of her pretty home and slammed the front door. Then she took off her hat and ran her fingers through her hair.

As she sought her mother in the pleasantly lamp-lit living room she said: "Do you know, mother, that Mrs. Jones says the most stupid things. She insisted this afternoon upon telling us all about her son's wound healing by first intention. I am perfectly sure she used the wrong word. It sounded ridiculous."

And Maydie tossed her head a trifle scornfully. Catching her reflection in a glass as she sat down by the fire, she smiled at it in friendly fashion. It was quite a pleasant reflection.

Maydie's Mother Explains
But her mother, folding up her sewing as the dinner gong sounded, startled the self-possessed young girl by saying:

"My dear, there is nothing stupid in that remark. Wounds do heal by first and second intention. Or they heal by primary union and granulation. First intention means primary union. I'll tell you about it after dinner."

So after dinner, when the family had settled down to its various activities, ranging from knitting to apple munching, from headwork to the perusal of the evening paper, Mrs. Lang proceeded to explain to her young daughter the wisdom of Mrs. Jones's remarks. Maydie listened with more or less weariness. But she listened.

"Tommy Jones got a nasty wound when he fell off the roof and lacerated his shoulder," said Maydie's mother. "I should not have been surprised if the wound had granulated instead of healing by first intention."

"Well, what does that mean?" Maydie asked, reluctantly.

"Often infection, or a failure to bring the edges of a wound closely together causes granulation, or an open wound, which takes a long time to heal, because a great deal of new tissue must be manufactured to bring the process of healing. The wound may slough, or discharge. This indicates an infection. Tommy's mother is naturally glad because his shoulder did not granulate."

"I remember. I was there the day he fell, and Mrs. Jones wasn't a bit worried because his shoulder healed so freely. I thought she was awfully unfeeling at the time," said Maydie. "But she said bleeding was good for wounds, as long as it wasn't too profuse or continued. She said it washed the wound."

RACING TO COME BACK AT SAN BRUNO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Plans are going forward for the immediate construction of stables at the old Tanforan track at San Bruno, in preparation for the opening of the season next November under the auspices of the newly organized Pacific Coast Jockey club, backed by a number of millionaires.

The stables will accommodate over 500 horses. It is expected that the stalls will be completed by July 10, and the track will also be in good condition by that time, which will permit owners to bring horses there and work them out in preparation for the season.

The plans being worked out call for the most modern track in the United States, and it is expected that all of the best stables, many of whose owners refuse to "race" their ponies at "Tin Juana," will be represented when the meet opens.

G. A. Applegarth, architect, is drawing up plans for the grandstand, which will be located in the best possible position for spectators to see the races, and will have many innovations, especially in view of giving spectators a fine view of the wire. It is expected that the entire plant will be completed by October 15.

Professional betting positively will not be permitted, and the management will cooperate with authorities in banning bookmakers who may try to do business on the side, it is declared. The directors believe that the track will be a success without betting. No licensed books can be permitted, nor mutual machines, and the directors want to fly-by-night bookies in the grandstand.

There isn't any unmarketable property in this city. You can sell your holdings if you will advertise adequately.

JAZZ

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

There are signs of an increasing response to the movement for the abolition of jazz music and the kind of dancing that commonly goes with it.

Fathers and mothers are becoming more and more aware of the menace of jazz to morality and healthy-mindedness. And those who inveigh against it from pulpit and lecture platform are given more sympathetic attention than was formerly the case.

Which decidedly is as it should be. The sooner we are rid of jazz the sooner shall we have a return of real national prosperity, dependent as that is on wholesome and vigorous thinking, earnest and sustained creative effort.

Whereas, if jazz continues to grip the popular imagination, there will be a progressive weakening of both the desire and the ability to think and to do effectively. There will be, indeed, a progressive moral and mental degeneration.

For jazz is demonstrably a cause of neurotic instability and impaired powers of reasoning. Still worse, influencing the mind as all music does through emotional appeal, jazz has the misfortune of exciting emotions associated not with the higher but with the lower human trends.

Thus it is atavistic in its effects. It makes a mockery of spiritual evolution and brings its devotees down to the carnalities of primitive man. One may even say of it, with Dr. Percy Stickney Grant: "Jazz is retrogression. It rings the bell for full steam astern. It is going to the African jungle."

Its effect is to make you chatter, and, as Voltaire says, "to go on all fours." To which I would add—and to whisk your tail around a tree. "Our great dance music has been profoundly pathetic and idealistic. Jazz says, 'Cut it out, don't dream, seize the day.' There is no pathos or idealism about jazz music. It is for sensation. It is the gesture of the jungle."

I commend this especially to those parents who as yet fail to appreciate the danger jazz holds for their adolescent boys and girls. At a time of life when, owing to increased emotional activity, there is both greater need and greater opportunity for insuring response to lofty ideals, to let boys or girls become jazz addicts is to excite in them sentiments that handicap and debase.

It may even be to insure soul wreckage. Last year, it has been estimated, 65,000 girls disappeared in the United States, "leaving no trace." Jazz, you may be sure, had a hand in the disappearance of many, even as it is in part responsible for the rising tide of divorce, neuroticism, and general social inadequacy.

Let us, then, be done with jazz, and as speedily as possible. It has no place in a civilization that deserves the name. And a civilization that too long tolerates it is doomed itself to disappear, to pass from the world of living things to the realm of the dead.

CONVENTIONS HEAD FOR CALIFORNIA THIS SPRING

Southern Pacific Declares Heaviest Travel in History

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Convention travel to California is heavier this year than ever before, according to a report of the Southern Pacific company.

Between now and the first of the year there will be over 100 conventions in California, and there have already been a number of late, district, and national conventions held in various California cities. In addition, conventions are being scheduled at an increasing rapid rate for the 1923 season.

The most important convention of the season is the Shriners' convention in San Francisco in June. The American Bar association will convene here in August. The International Association of Rotary Clubs will draw at least 15,000 members to Southern California in June when the convention is held at Los Angeles. The National Association of Real Estate Boards will hold its convention early in June, and the middle of the month will see the International Association of Police Chiefs meeting here. The latter part of the month the Disabled American War Veterans will hold their annual encampment in Los Angeles in September, and the Private Soldiers and Sailors league will meet in Oakland in September. In addition, there are many trade conventions, some local, and some from the Pacific coast which will hold their conventions in the state.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

WHO MINDED THE WIDOW'S BABY

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Frisk Squirrel was a sight when Daddy Green-crest hauled him out of the frog's mudhole in the edge of Chips Beaver's Pond. His own mother wouldn't have known him. And she wouldn't have wanted to, because she'd have had the terrible job of getting him clean. But she wasn't there so the kind old duck had to tend to him.

All the time he was doing it he scolded the naughty baby. "I don't see how it happened," he said severely. "What were you doing on the ground?" "I wath being careful," lisped Frisk. "I thought it with all wight if I didn't jump, or I didn't climb."

"Why, what do you mean?" gasped the duck. "That's what squirrels are supposed to do. Remember you're a squirrel!" "But I got into trouble doing it, all the thame."

Daddy thought that over a minute before he said: "My crest! So you did! Well, then, you've got to learn how it should be done." "Um-hm," nodded Frisk. "Only first I'd ought to thwim."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the bird. Then he began to laugh. For both times Frisk had been in trouble before this he's come very near drowning. But he stopped himself suddenly. Frisk was laughing too. This wasn't the way to be severe with bad little stuff-tails. "Wauk!" he frowned. "You ought to have better sense. A silly, mouse wouldn't get itself all messed up like this."

"What's a mouthe?" lisped the youngster. So Daddy Green-crest wiped the mud off his beak and told all about the mice, their funny looks and their foolish ways. He got so excited over the telling he forgot to be severe again. And when he paused for breath Frisk said: "That's a nithe towy. Tell me another one."

A nice story! How could you be severe with him? But what amused Green-crest most of all was Frisk's asking: "Daddy Duck (if I had feathers on my earsh, then tould I thwim?" "Feathers on your ears, eh?" The old duck laughed, till his crest stood straight on end. "That might have something to do with it, but squirrels only climb, so of course they don't wear them. Now you'd better climb along before your mother finds you are out of your nest again." (He needn't have worried; the widow squibred was peeking out from behind a tree-trunk to be sure he had the hard work all done.)

Then he flew off to tell his wife. "Our stuff-tail's been in a bad mess

But She Wasn't There, So the Old Duck Had to Tend to Him

this time; but I got him fine and clean." And she almost said, "That's more than you'd do for a duckling." But she didn't.

A certain painter is confined in a lunatic-asylum. To persons who visit him he says: "Look here, this is my latest masterpiece." They look, and see nothing but an expanse of bare canvas. They ask: "What does that represent?" "That? Why, that represents the passage of the Jews through the Red Sea."

"Beg pardon, but where is the sea?" "It has been driven back." "And where are the Jews?" "They have crossed over." "And the Egyptians?" "Will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

People have so many ways of being mean! A hermit is a man who gets along pretty well without the world.

Any secret a woman is compelled to keep is untold agony. Don't overdo a thing unless you also wish to do it over.

No man ever yet lived a hog's life and escaped a hog's looks.

Between a half-baked optimist and a kiln-dried cynic is a hard choice.

Obscurity may have its charms for the man who is compelled to associate with famous people.

'49 CARAVAN IS TO K. OF P. TO HOLD SUNRISE MEETING

Exemplify Rank of Page in Muir Woods on July Fourth

Typical Outfit to Move to Bret Harte Country

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Replete with red shirts, beards, and boots, a modern party of forty-niners will leave here in auto-caravans, conducted along the lines of the old prairie schooner trains, on May 19 for a tour of the Bret Harte country, and the old camps of the days of gold.

The caravan, although equipped with buzz-wagons which were never seen when the original red-shirted fortune hunters panned gold in the region of the Mother Lode, will be pioneer in spirit, clothes, and methods.

It will camp out at night, and cooking will be done over campfires, and beds will be made under the pines and oaks. Breakfasts will consist of coffee and flapjacks, and washups will have to be obtained by creek banks.

The trip will be individual as far as finances go, each party paying its own way. However, it will be necessary to register with the committee, headed by Joseph R. Knowland and Harry C. Peterson, of the research department of the California state library, in order to get in the caravan, and be insured of accommodations for mid-day meals, which will be obtained at restaurants on the towns enroute.

The caravan idea was received enthusiastically after Peterson came to San Francisco, correctly dressed in '49 costume, from his soft hat to umbrella, grey trousers, boots, and soft shirt and '49 beard. Peterson made a thorough study of costumes of the day from state library documents before arranging his get-up.

The program is as follows: May 19—Leave San Francisco, 8 a. m., meet Oakland party 9:45, lunch at Stockton, supper and sleep at Hornitos.

May 20—Breakfast at Hornitos, lunch en route; supper and sleep at Sonora.

May 21—Lunch at Jackass Hill and sleep at Angel's Camp.

May 22—Lunch at Mokelumne Hill and supper at Jackson.

May 23—Lunch at Sacramento, and line-up for the '49 village.

It is expected that similar expeditions, although not over exactly the same route, or in conjunction with

Two thousand persons will receive their first impression of the Knights of Pythias in a secluded spot in Muir woods at the sunrise convention and exemplification of the rank of Page on the morning of July 4. All lodges of Northern and Central California will participate. Onward lodge, Sacramento, will put the work on in tableaux form.

The initiation will be part of a two-day convention which will open in the shadow of Mt. Tamalpais on July 3. A barbecue will be served on July 3 and a barbecue breakfast will follow the initiation ceremony. Muir lodge, Sausalito, will present a minstrel show.

The proceeds of the convention will go to the Pythian Home fund. Locations for the institution are now being considered in different communities of California. H. D. Wyckoff, who directed the sunrise convention on Catalina islands last year, will be in charge of the affair.

WASHINGTON AND TENNESSEE PICNICS

Two more great states will hold picnic reunions in the Sycamore Grove park, Saturday, May 20. These are Tennessee and Washington, and both will be all-day gatherings with basket dinners at noon and programs following. County registers, coffee and badges will be other features. Of former residents of both states who are now Californians are invited to come out and have a day with old friends.

The auctioneer was offering a handsome old cabinet, but there was only one bidder—a dealer who kept on increasing his bids.

"How is it," asked the auctioneer, "that you continue bidding against yourself?" "Well, you see," replied the broker, "that is a matter of business. I have a commission from two different parties to buy the cabinet at any cost, and I don't know yet which of them is to have it."

the San Francisco expedition, will be made by parties from other parts of the state.

The caravaners will end their trip at Sacramento, where they will take in the days of '49 celebration.

There were two Browns in the village, both firemen. One lost his wife and the other his boat about the same time. The clergyman's wife called, as she supposed upon the widower, but really upon the Brown whose boat had gone down. "I'm sorry to hear of your loss," she said. "Oh, it ain't much matter," was the reply. "She was never up to much." "Indeed," said the surprised lady. "Yes," continued Brown, "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my mate, but he wouldn't have her. I've had my share of another for some time." And the disgusted visitor fled.

TUJUNGA P.O. NOW
THIRD CLASS STATION

Service Is to Be Improved and Direct Delivery
Is Expected

TUJUNGA, May 19.—The Tujunga postoffice has been raised to the third class, dating from April 1, and F. M. Ashby, postmaster here since 1915, has been appointed acting postmaster.

Mr. Ashby states that the advance makes this an international money order office, and may, under certain conditions entitle it to local delivery. It is expected that equipment will be increased and that direct mail delivery service twice a day will be instituted.

Congressman Lindeberg, has made inquiries into the needed mail service for Tujunga through V. E. Craig, a personal friend, and it is expected that in view of the greatly increased postal business of the office that some improvements will be arranged for within the near future.

Caulfield Let Out
Robert Caulfield, alleged bad check artist, who was recently apprehended through the efforts of local bank employees and lodged in the Glendale jail, got out again. It appears that wanderers from the straight and narrow had accumulated so rapidly in the Glendale "jail" that it was found necessary to release one of the prisoners who was "not guilty." The jailer got the inmates mixed and released Caulfield by mistake.

The suspected forger celebrated his unexpected good luck by immediately writing another check, this time payable to one "Curry," and cashed it in Glendale. The merchant who cashed the check became suspicious and called the Tujunga Valley bank, on which the check was drawn, to ascertain its validity. Robert Walker, teller, had the Glendale merchant describe the man, who had "just left," and found that the description tallied with that of Caulfield. The Glendale police were notified, and as a result Tujunga has received quite a bit of attention from detectives and other officers.

Cemetery Association
A meeting of the committee for the organization of a cemetery association, recently asked to serve by M. V. Hartranft, who has placed a deed with the Tujunga Valley bank for the northeastern four acres of tract 2556 to be used as a cemetery, is to be held tonight in the Verdugo Hills Record office. The committee consists of Wallace M. Morgan, Herman H. Bredt, Mrs. D. J. Warnick, Mrs. Mary Smith, A. D. Kirschman, Dr. E. R. Theobald and Frank B. Mears. At an organizational meeting the committee elected Dr. Theobald president, Mr. Morgan secretary, and Mrs. Smith treasurer.

Citizens of the community who are interested in the formation of a cemetery association are asked to meet with the committee tonight, when organization details are to be worked out.

Real Estate Men to Picnic
Several Tujunga real estate dealers are to attend the annual picnic of the Southern California Realtors, tomorrow. It is hoped by local men that the oak grove at Sunland may be selected by the Realtors as the meeting place for next year's picnic.

Church Basement Completed
The work of enlarging the basement of the Community church has been completed by volunteer workers and a cement floor has been laid. The new room will be used for Sunday school classes and meetings of church organizations.

DR. KIMLIN RETURNS TO BAY CITY MEETING

Dr. Kimlin returned Wednesday night to San Francisco, after a two-day stay in Glendale. Mr. Kimlin and family are attending the world convention of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in San Francisco. His two-day stay in Glendale was necessitated by a business engagement. While here he stated that everything at the convention is progressing wonderfully and that the outlook for the work of the denomination for the coming year is exceedingly bright.

THE SHRINE

JAMES W. FOLEY

A little cabinet of Memory,
Where are enshrined
Treasures of all the days of you and me,
Where we may find
Jewels of rarest recollection, set
With smiles and tears,
And that shall gleam and sparkle brighter yet
Through all the years.

A little cabinet of mind and heart,
With treasures stored.
A place remembered joys are set apart
A precious hoard.
The scents of rose and of the violet
That rise and fill
The air, and all the days that may be yet
That fragrance spill.

The shrine of smiles that came and then were gone,
Of laughter sweet.
Canvases of memory with faces on
And days so fleet
Yet full of joy and rarest happiness,
Each with its grace
Of beauty, and a kiss and a caress,
A friend's dear face.

A little cabinet of Memory,
Where treasures fill.
A voice that sang of love for you and me
And then was still.
The gems and jewels there of all the years,
More precious yet
And I look on my treasures through the tears
And eyes grown wet.

CERRITOS PICNIC AT BROOKSIDE ON SATURDAY
CERRITOS TEAMS CLIMB TOWARD CHAMPIONSHIP

A-4 to Eighth Grades to Have Day Outing With Parents and Friends
First Unit to Meet Rowan Street School on Los Angeles Campus

Children of the Cerritos Avenue School from the A 4 to the 8th grades are to have a picnic at Brookside Park Saturday to which mothers and friends are invited. The party will leave the school grounds Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and leave the park at 3 p. m. Not until Thursday afternoon was the matter definitely settled. At that time the committee appointed to secure auto transportation reported favorably and the announcement was made to the children who are to be given a day of old fashioned picnicking and games. Class teachers and the principal, Mrs. Annie Curtis will of course accompany them.

The ball players of Cerritos Avenue are forging ahead and at least one of the teams is likely to be in at the finals for championship. Wednesday night the junior team played Pacific Avenue Juniors, the Cerritos boys winning with a score of 23 to 6. Earlier in the week the Cerritos seniors played the Pacific Avenue seniors and won with a score of 37 to 5.

Today the first team of Cerritos will play a team of the Rowan Avenue School on the Los Angeles campus. Next Monday Cerritos seniors and juniors play Columbus Avenue seniors and juniors for the championship of the western division. The winners in these games will play the winners in the eastern division for the city championship. The teams with whom they will play will probably be the Doran street seniors and the Broadway juniors.

Next Tuesday Cerritos' first team will play the Burbank first team on the Cerritos field.

NEW JEWELER TO OPEN IN CITY

Edward N. Radke to Occupy 109 1/2 South Brand Boulevard

Edward N. Radke, a jeweler of note in California, will soon open a first-class jewelry establishment at 109 1/2 South Brand boulevard, the opening to occur, according to present plans, about May 25. When completely stocked this store will be one of the finest suburban jewelry establishments in Southern California. Mr. Radke has spent many years in the jewelry business. He comes from a family of jewelers, five of his family being unusually proficient along this particular line.

At the present time Mr. Radke and two of his brothers, R. L. and G. H. Radke, are operating two other retail jewelry establishments in California. One of these is in San Francisco and the other in Marysville, where Mr. Radke and his family were located prior to coming to Glendale. It was in connection with the San Francisco establishment that Mr. Radke conducted a school in jewelry work, many of those graduated from which are now located in various parts of the state.

In his Glendale store Mr. Radke will especially emphasize the optical department. For many years he has been a practicing optician, having graduated from a school in Chicago in 1927. Since that time he has kept up with the very latest developments and discoveries in the business.

Mr. Radke has already located with his family at the corner of Doran and Columbus. That he is going to be the best kind of a booster for Glendale is evidenced by that fact that his first "official" act since coming here was to become a member of the Glendale taken a long lease on the room in which he is establishing his store.

After opening Mr. Radke will give the people of Glendale the very finest kind of jewelry and optical service. He wants to get acquainted with local residents, and he says that the latchstrings are out to all the people of Glendale, even before the formal opening of his place of business.

New truth is found not by kicking at the old but by using it as a foundation.

THIRTY-SIX LOTS
SOLD IN FIVE DAYS' TIME

Edwards & Wildey Claim
Record for Foothill Gardens Tract

Thirty-six lots sold in one tract since last Sunday is the achievement of the Edwards & Wildey company, 130 North Brand boulevard. This wonderful record was made in connection with the Glendale Foothill Gardens tract, one of the prettiest pieces of ground in Glendale, for which this firm is exclusive agent. This knocks in the head the rumor that things necessarily are slow in Glendale. In this tract there are 69 lots, only 33 of which remain unsold.

"This was one of the busiest weeks this firm has ever known. From the minute this tract was announced the lot-buying people of this section and the visitors to this locality have realized its unusual worth and the very low prices that are being offered. For this reason there has been nothing to it except show the property and make out the papers.

"Judging from the way the lots in this tract were snapped up during the first few days of this week and the number of inquiries that are constantly coming in it is reasonable to believe that before the close of the week the entire tract will have been sold out. The prices that are being charged for these lots include everything in the way of street work, such as curbing, sidewalks, oil and rock streets, etc. In addition to this, the Glendale Foothill Gardens tract has everything in the way of public utility features, such as electricity, gas, telephone, water, etc. So that this tract is everything that could be desired in the way of a home-site location."

The street work in this tract has already started and the large force of men are now on the ground and are working overtime to complete the work. It is expected that all of this work will be finished within 60 days. From this tract wonderful mountain and valley views are obtainable. Already there is a remarkable building activity forecast for this tract, as a large number of lot buyers are intending at once to erect homes on their new holdings. McPherson says "Keep your eye on Glendale Foothill Gardens."

STILL SHOUTS LOUD IN FIRE

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—One more home was ruined by liquor when a house on West Fourth street went up in flames. According to report of the firemen, the blaze started when a still in the basement took fire, quickly igniting the alcoholic mash nearby. Losses were estimated at $2000, and no arrest was made, authorities apparently believing the damages done made up for the usual fine.

TOUGH LINES

Bill—"Poor old Jim is sure in a quandary today."
Ed—"Did he get his salary reduced?"
Bill—"No; he don't know whether to tell the staff about his latest golf score or what his kid did at home last night."
